U. S. AND BRITISH DELEGATION CONFER

BRYAN'S DAUGHTER SAYS CITIZENSHIP REGAINED IN 1925

Presenting Own Case in Contest Over Seat in Lower House, Florida Congresswoman Asserts Before Elections Committee She Never Renounced Citizenship to United States Even Though Married to An Englishman—Tells of Marriage in Nebraska to British Army Major in 1910.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—With her hands behind her and her body braced against a book shelf, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen today pleaded her right to a seat in the house where her father served years ago before his magnetic voice made him one of the outstanding men of his day.

Tall, gray haired, a democrat as was her parent, the late William Jennings Bryan, she personally handled her case before a house elections committee considering a contest brought against her right to represent the Fourth Florida district. The contestee is William C. Lawson, a republican.

Today Mrs. Owen recited before the committee the hardships encountered over her citizenship status as a result of her marriage to a British army officer.

She denied the non-citizenship charges brought against her by Lawson and contended her citizenship of forty-four years had been restored under the Cable act of 1922. She held the floor until the hearing adjourned, a report on which may be submitted to the house next week.

Several women crowded into the stuffy and smoke-clouded committee room and tears rolled down their cheeks as Mrs. Owen recalled emotional phases of her experience in answer to charges made by Lawson's counsel.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — (AP) — Presenting her own case in the contest over her seat in the house, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, democrat, Florida, asserted before a house elections committee today that she had never renounced her citizenship to the United States even though married to an Englishman.

Mrs. Owen met the non-citizenship charge of William C. Lawson, republican contestant for her seat in the house, with a dramatic recital of the hardships encountered over her citizenship status as a result of her marriage.

ROOMERS DRIVEN FORTH BY BLAZE AT NORTH PLATTE

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—Fire at a rooming house here last night did damage estimated at $7,500. Water poured into the flames did damage to the Dowhower pool hall and Hoosier cafe below.

Occupants of the rooming house escaped from the building by jumping from windows onto the roof of a second hand store at the rear. The blaze was discovered in a linen closet in one of the rooms. Defective wiring was given as the cause.

The building was covered by insurance, but the pool hall and cafe carried none.

Inquest Under Way In Death Of Benting

Injuries Suffered When Hit By Truck Fatal To Lincoln Man.

FIND ACCIDENT UNAVOIDABLE.

The accident in which Lester Benting was fatally injured was unavoidable because the smoke obscured Benting's car parked on the viaduct according to the verdict returned by a coroner's jury at 3:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

TESTIMONY CONFLICTS.

Conflict in testimony developed Saturday afternoon at the inquest into the death of Lester Benting, 25, who passed away from the effects of injuries sustained in an automobile accident Friday. The inquest was held at Castle, Roper and Mathews' mortuary and was ordered by County Attorney Max Towle.

Mr. Benting was struck Friday morning by a truck driven by C. N. Lippold, rural route 5, on the North Tenth street viaduct. He died at 8:25 o'clock Friday night at the Lincoln General hospital. Benting had been living temporarily at 2406 P street.

Five Witnessese Summoned.

Five witnesses were summoned to appear at the inquest. They were Charles Lippold, C. N. Lippold, Philip Nagel, Poe Mara, and Dr. George E. Lewis, city physician. The jury was composed of W. D. Lockett, 3642 Garfield street; James Beltzer, 536 South Thirtieth street; Alva W. Tobias, 939 South Eleventh street; R. H. Neil, 538 South Tenth street; Charles Devore, 636 South Seventeenth street; and Carroll Worthington, 2373 Alpha street.

Witnesses disagreed as to whether or not smoke from a locomotive obscured the car parked on the viaduct. Mr. Lippold, who was driving the truck that hit Benting, declared that smoke extended from the top of the viaduct almost to the end of the south incline.

Joe Mara claimed that he noticed no smoke at the time of the ac-

Someday The Russian Peasant Will Drive His Tractor To The Seats of Mighty, Hunt Declares

When The Red Revolution Has Run Its Course, It Will Be The Man Who Tills The Soil Who Will Reign in The Kremlin in Moscow.

This is the sixth and concluding article of the series on conditions in soviet Russia of today, written exclusively for International News Service by Frazier Hunt, noted magazine writer, war correspondent and newspaper man.

LONDON, Jan. 18—On Oct. 1, 1933 the official close of the initial five year industrialization plan, Russian peasants are promised more than 400,000 tractors; and a million by 1938. Today four great tractor plants are being built in different parts of the soviet union. They are planned to turn out more than 100,000 a year, as against the eight to ten thousand imported annually from America at present.

A hundred thousand tractors a year! It is absurd, fantastic, and yet they may do it. Personally I am inclined to believe that they will be doing splendidly if they turn out 25 per cent of that number—but that will be 25 times more than they have ever had before. But whether it is 25,000 or 100,000 a year, these new living things of the machine age, those symbols of the future will find their way over the great Russian land and millions of rich acres will for the first time feel the thrill of a plow and hear the song of a reaper.

A Grandiose Program.

With it all go great plans for stupendous state grain farms, cooperative fruit farms, cotton plantations, and a magnificent sweep of enterprises that taxes any imagination.

Furrows five miles long on the greatest wheat farm in the world, the "giant" with its 244,000 black acres lying as flat as a billiard table in the rich lands of the north caucasus. Plans for 120 great state grain farms, averaging 100,000 acres each. And all the work to be done by the most modern American machines, tractors, drills, combines, with not a single horse in sight.

Great cotton projects based on incredible irrigation schemes—worked

COURT DENIES REHEARING IN GUARANTY SUIT

Motion of State Banks Overruled Without Comment.

DECISION UPHELD SPECIAL LEVIES

Flansburg Undecided As To Further Action In Litigation.

The Supreme court Saturday refused to reconsider its recent decision upholding the guaranty fund special assessments. In overruling the motion of state banks for a rehearing of the appeal, the court made no comment.

The suit was originally instituted in the Lancaster District court by more than 500 state banks in an attempt to enjoin the collection of the special assessments. District Judge Frost granted the injunction but on appeal the lower court decision was completely overturned and the guaranty fund law as well as the special assessment provision was upheld.

Leonard A. Flansburg, one of the attorneys for the banks, when informed of the court's ruling, would not say definitely whether an appeal to the United States Supreme court would be attempted.

Says Issues Not Decided.

"The court's opinion did not decide any of the real issues of the case and those issues certainly should be ruled upon," he said.

In the brief which accompanied the motion for rehearing, attorneys for the banks asserted that neither a legislative enactment nor an appeal to the U. S. Supreme court would be of any benefit to the banks, contending that only a reversal of the Supreme court's decision would be of aid.

Governor Declines Comment.

Governor Weaver refused to comment on the court's action saying that he might make a formal state-

HARRISON BANK FOUND SOLVENT

Institution is Reopened Without Any Loss To Depositors.

Woods Thinks Agitation In Wyoming Caused Run and Closing.

Exactly one month after it was closed by its own officers and directors in the face of a run said to have been instigated by advertising and personal gossip in neighboring towns of Wyoming, the Harrison State bank at Harrison, Neb., was reopened Saturday under the same ownership and management as before, with its capital, surplus, and resources intact and without a cent of loss to any depositor.

The bank was found to be perfectly solvent when a committee for the depositors recently went over its notes and other assets in conjunction with the officers and a representative of the Nebraska banking bureau. However, a few thousand dollars of paper on which there might have been a small loss was taken out by the owners, in order to make the bank "hogtight" in a financial way.

Upon resuming business Saturday, the bank's books showed undiminished deposits of $334,000, loans and discounts of $291,000, and a cash reserve well above the amount required by law. Its capital stock remains at $20,000 and surplus at $10,000, while the undivided profits account exhibits a net balance of $4,200 after charging off all the items which the depositors' committee considered doubtful.

Blames Wyoming Agitation.

State Bank Commissioner George W. Woods, pointing out the excellent condition of the Harrison State bank which enabled it to reopen without loss to any of its customers, and without the necessity of resubscribing the capital stock, declared that the "run" which caused its suspension on December 18 was precipitated by unfavorable publicity from bank advertising and gossip in eastern Wyoming.

Systematic propaganda has been spead there, he said, to the effect that banks in Nebraska are in a bad way and that people living along the border line should put their money in Wyoming institutions. Statements to that effect have been printed in newspaper advertisements in Wyoming towns, Woods was informed, which inspired a good deal of talk along the same line. These reports trickled over into the vicinity of Harrison and alarmed some of the people there, who immediately began drawing their money out of the local bank.

"This is a good illustration of an absolutely strong and sound bank being compelled to close through the damaging effects of too much

University Farm Manager Is Dead

S. W. PERIN.

Superintendent of the agricultural college farm for forty years who died Saturday morning, 3285 Orchard street. He had been confined to his home for about nine months.

EMPLOYE OF UNI. 40 YEARS DIES

S. W. Perin Superintendent of Ag College Farm Taken By Death.

Tribute Paid To Service Veteran Worker By Dean Burr.

S. W. Perin, who had been superintendent of the agricultural farm since it was but a hog lot and an apple orchard in 1889 until the present time when it is a highly developed property, died at 5 o'clock Saturday morning at his home, 3285 Orchard street. He was 70 years old. Following several serious operations he had been confined to his home for about nine months.

Tribute was paid to Mr. Perin by Dean W. W. Burr of the agricultural college as one of the most faithful and efficient workers in the university's employ. His willingness to do any kind of work and the many acts of kindness and thoughtfulness on his part had made hundreds of friends for "Daddy" Perin in the forty years that he was superintendent of the farm.

Crossed State In Covered Wagon.

Senator Willis Perin was born in Council Bluffs, Ia., May 8, 1859. When a year old he traveled with his mother and four brothers in a covered wagon across the plains of Nebraska to Pikes peak in Colorado. His father was there prospecting for gold. They returned the next year to Davenport, Ia. In the spring of 1880 Mr. Perin and two of his brothers homesteaded in Custer county Nebraska.

He was married in 1882 to Laura Courtney. Mr. and Mrs. Perin were employed September 16, 1889 as superintendent and housekeeper of what was then called the industrial college farm at Lincoln. Mr. Perin

Rice Given Year's Term, Will Appeal

Poverty Affidavit To Be Filed and County Asked Pay Court Expense.

John M. Rice, convicted on a charge of attempting to perform an illegal operation was given the maximum penalty by District Judge Chappell Saturday morning. The sentence is for one year in the county jail and a fine of $500.

Sentencing of Rice who was found guilty by a jury in District court in December, came after Judge Chappell overruled a motion for a new trial, L. R. Doyle, counsel for Rice, immediately gave notice of appeal.

Before sentence was passed, the judge asked Rice if he had anything to say. He said that he wasn't guilty and claimed he didn't have a fair trial.

Within an hour after sentence had been pronounced Rice was released under $2,500 bond.

The affidavit for the bill of exceptions to prosecute the appeal will be filed Monday, Mr. Doyle stated. He also will file Monday a poverty

JAMES E. O'NEIL, 'OIL EXILE,' LONGS RETURN TO U. S.

Long-Sought Witness In Teapot Dome Case Ill In French Villa.

FLED COUNTRY TO AVOID TESTIFYING

Lawyers Inquire What Will Happen If He Comes to America.

CANNES, France Jan. 18—(AP)—A sick, broken old man sits in the villa St. Augustine on the outskirts of this city longing for a sight of the statute of liberty and the Kansas and Oklahoma oil field which produced his fortune.

He is James E. O'Neil, former president of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co., and missing witness in the famous Teapot Dome oil scandal. He and Henry M. Blackmer, who was president of the Midwest Refining Co., fled from the United States to Europe rather than give testimony in the Teapot Dome investigation which, it was charged, might have incriminated their friend Harry Sinclair.

O'Neil, who has evaded process servers who sought to subpoena him back to the United States since 1924., is an American citizen, but his expired passport does not enable him to leave France unless headed for the United States, and to return to the United States may involve countless complications for him.

Ill of Heart Trouble.

He is quite ill of heart trouble and he wants to go back home. Numerous lawyers are making inquiries on his behalf as to just what will happen when he sets foot on American soil. His physicians advise against a voyage.

When Blackmer, the other missing witness, was discovered two years ago on a train between Monaco and Nice, the American government representatives thought that O'Neil would be an easy catch. But O'Neil learned that once his friend

PUBLICITY PROBE COMES TO HALT

Utilities Denied Permission to Present Propaganda Defense.

Chairman of Trade Commission and Weadcock In Sharp Clash.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18— (AP) — The federal trade commission's inquiry into publicity activities of the public utilities ended today with Commissioner McCulloch declining to accept a documentary and detailed evidence presented by the power companies in an effort to show that much of their propaganda against government ownership was issued as a defensive measure.

Many Exhibits Offered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18— (AP) —A sharp clash between Bernard P. Weadcock, special counsel for public utilities and Commissioner McCulloch of the federal trade commission came today as Weadcock attempted to submit evidence designed to show that data drected against government ownership was disseminated as a defensive measure.

Weadcock, in attempting to place in the record ninety-six exhibits which he said showed the extent to which proponents of government ownership had gone in circulating propaganda, challenged the ruling of Commissioner McCulloch that they should not be permitted. For two years, Weadcock said, the whole utilities industry has given all it has, "and now when we wish to present our side we are cut off."

As the presiding commissioner insisted that his ruling blocking the exhibits from the record be respected, Weadcock continued to argue and the commissioner ordered the court reporter to end the record temporarily and told Weadcock he would find some way to see that his ruling was respected.

McCulloch Explains.

The attorney cited the Public Ownership league, the National Popular Government league and the People's Legislative service as leading organizations who have "propagandized" for government ownership. Commissioner McCulloch said he would permit the names of these organizations to go into the record as showing that the utilities had to combat opposition propaganda, but held that the commission was not investigating these organizations and could not therefore go into the extent of their alleged activities.

HEDGES FILES APPEAL.

Herbert Hedges, against whom Clettius G. Steinhour obtained a $3,000 damage judgment in Red Willow District court as a result of an automobile accident, filed an appeal with the Supreme court Saturday.

Grain Co-op Raises Wheat Bid Chicago

Farmers' Corporation Also Buying Corn On Kansas City Market.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)— The Farmers' National Grain corporation today increased its bid for wheat in the Chicago market from $1.18 to $1.20.

It was learned, also, the corporation has been buying corn at Kansas City for some time.

General Manager Kellogg said the organization planned to buy in the northwest corn markets within the next few days, at Kansas City, he said, No. 3 mixed corn is being purchased at 13 cents and under Kansas City May and No. 2 mixed at 10½ cents under Kansas City May.

Explaining the increased bid in the Chicago market, Kellogg said: "We merely decided the price should be higher."

Buying Kansas City Corn.

KANSAS CITY—Jan. 18—(AP)—More than 100,000 bushels of corn has been purchased here for the Farmers' National Grain corporation by the Equity Union Grain Co., which is storing the grain in local houses.

The company has arranged for storage space for 500,000 bushels in Kansas City. The basis of purchases has been 12½ to 13 cents under the Kansas City May option quotation. All purchases are hedged in the futures market.

Notification has been received from the National Grain corporation by the Farmers' Union Jobbing association to place bids here for country run No. 1 hard wheat at $1.15 a bushel, and No. 2 hard wheat at $1.13 a bushel.

MURPHY RETURNS TO PRISON AFTER 13-YEAR ABSENCE

Charles Murphy, paroled thirteen years ago from the Nebraska penitentiary, was returned to that institution Saturday to serve the remainder of a 1 to 10 year sentence for burglary.

Murphy was paroled a year after he was committed, but violated the parole within 15 days after he was released. No trace of him was obtained again until he was imprisoned at Leavenworth in 1927 to serve a three-year sentence for automobile theft.

His term at Leavenworth ended Friday and Walter Schroeder, state identification officer, was waiting for him in the warden's office to return him to Nebraska.

SENATE VOTES ON HAT TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — (AP) — The senate today approved an increase in the tariff on the cheaper class of wool felt hat bodies, but refused an additional duty of 25 cents apiece on blocked hat bodies and finished hats.

The rate agreed upon on wool hat bodies, hoods, forms and shapes, regardless of value, was 33 cents a pound and 50 per cent ad valorem. Existing levies are lower on the cheaper products and higher on the costlier articles.

The rate approved was much lower than that provided in the house bill—40 cents a pound and 75 per cent ad valorem.

Both the house bill and the finance committee measure proposed an additional rate of 25 cents an article if blocked or finished, but this was eliminated at the suggestion of Senator George, democrat, Georgia.

With this action the senate recessed until Monday.

Katherine Everett Weds Eyer Sloniger

The marriage of Miss Katherine Everett, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O. W. Everett, to Eyer L. Sloniger, took place at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 1900 B street. Dr. Paul Covey Johnston of the Westminster Presbyterian church read the marriage service in the presence of only members of the family and a few intimate friends.

Mr. Sloniger and his bride left late in the afternoon for an eastern honeymoon trip after which they will be at home temporarily in Kansas City, where Mr. Sloniger is manager of the Universal Air Lines corporation.

GARRETT DENIES MAKING THREATS

Also Insists Was In Alliance at Time Kinsley Slain.

CHADRON, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—Two hours of cross examination today failed to break down the story of Robert Garrett that he was in Alliance at the time William Kinsley was slain 18 miles from the city.

Garrett, accused of Kinsley's murder, continued his denials of testimony of state's witnesses, who said he had made threats against Kinsley in the presence of his daughter, Mrs. Helen Ledict, and others.

He took exception to testimony of Charles Benjamin that he, Garrett, was nervous when he obtained a shotgun, rifle and field glasses at the second hand store of C. W. Lighter. Garret, who said he secured the equipment to go hunting and not to kill Kinsley, insisted that his actions were normal and did not indicate nervousness.

The prosecution uncovered records showing that Garrett was arrested November 3 for alleged bootlegging at Alliance. Garrett himself told of this trial in County court, but he pointed out the action was dropped before going to District court for trial. He denied telling Roy Rager at a pool hall that he was going to Casper for a "load of liquor."

The jury is under strict guard and rooms are assigned the men at a hotel. Spectators are being held in the courtroom at adjournment and recess, until the jury marches out.

Arthur Garrett, a brother, who is a railway conductor, corroborated details of the defendant's whereabout during the day and evening Kinsley was slain, telling of meeting his brother at 5 p. m., 6, 6:30, 7:15 and 8 o'clock at various places.

Indications point to the trial lasting several days into next week. Thirteen more witnesses are to be examined by the defense.

State Gets Relief From Cold Wave

Mercury Climbs to 20 Above Zero Here At 2 P. M.

With the temperature rising generally throughout the state, the mercury had climbed to 20 degrees above zero in Lincoln at 2 o'clock Saturday. Prediction of warmer weather for Sunday indicated that Lincoln and territory was to be released from the grip of the most severe and prolonged cold wave experienced for several years.

The 20 above reading at 2 p. m., represented a 34-degree rise since 11 o'clock Friday night. The zero mark was reached at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, after 58 hours of continuous subzero weather.

Roads are being rapidly cleared, train traffic is running on schedule, and the few minor wire breaks have been repaired.

From a minimum of 12 below, Omaha reported a zero reading Saturday morning. Sioux City recorded the same after reaching 12 below earlier in the evening. North Platte reported 2 above and Valentine, coldest spot in the state on many an occasion this season, recorded 6 above.

Another cold spot, O'Neill, experienced 8 above Saturday, according to Burlington officials. Fremont reported -10, Ferry -10, York -6, and Plattsmouth -4.

Close to zero temperatures were reported to Lincoln Telephone officials from nearby towns Saturday. The reports follow: David City, -9; Beatrice, -7; Seward, -6; Tecumseh, -6; Bennet, -5; Fairbury, -4; Fairmont, -4; Wahoo, -4; York, -4; Friend, -2.

As Rogers Sees It

LONDON, Jan. 18 — Landed here at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon by lamplight. Our peace pilgrims arrived at Plymouth Rock Friday. Papers here today announce the type of clothes to be worn at the opening by the king on Tuesday. Says everyone is to dress the same as the king. I am here as official observer for the democrats and social adviser to Senator Joe Robinson, minority member of the delegation, and I am going to have a tough time making that suit of Joe's look like anything the king ever owned, so if Joe and I don't get in you will know there wasn't anything we could put on that we would be mistaken for King George in.

Answer City's Reply—The appellants in the College View annexation case which will be reviewed by the Supreme court next week have filed a nineteen-page answer to the city's reply to the appellants' brief for the high court.

Loses Watch and Chain—Dr. H. C. Leopold told police that while he was busy in an inner room of his suite in the Sharp building Friday afternoon, someone entered the outer office, and stole his watch and chain valued at $63.

Order to Show Cause — District Judge Chappell ordered Peter Rebensdorf to show cause at 9 a. m. January 22 why he should not be cited for contempt for failure to pay temporary alimony. The order followed a motion by Rachel Rebensdorf asking the citation for failure to pay temporary alimony, suit money, and counsel fees as ordered in District court October 10, 1929.

Files Cross-Petition — Charles Leddy filed an answer and cross-petition in District court Saturday to the divorce action brought against him by his wife, Beulah Leddy. He denied allegations of her petition in which she charged him with cruelty and failure to support. In his cross-petition he asked a divorce on the grounds of cruelty. The couple was married in Lincoln, October 29, 1927.

Wants Husband Enjoined—Claiming that property in her husband's name had been accumulated by joint efforts of the couple, Mrs. Ida Luers Schneider sought to have her husband enjoined from disposing of the property pending outcome of a divorce action she brought to District court Saturday. The suit was against Edward J. Schneider on charges of failure to support. The petition claims that property at stake amounts to $24,000. Mrs. Schneider asks custody of a 19-year-old daughter, and alimony and support money.

Travelers Hold Meeting—United Commercial Travelers met Saturday noon at the Lindell hotel. It was announced at the meeting that an invitation to attend the organization's teamwork and business division gathering at the Omaha chamber of commerce next Friday night had been accepted. Ralph Davis, national U. C. T. supreme sentinel, will speak under the sponsorship of the national chamber of commerce. The Lincoln delegates are to be guests of the Omaha chamber.

Reports On Story Telling—The Lincoln Recreation board held a general business discussion at the chamber of commerce Saturday noon. Miss Frances Ash announced that sixty children had attended the second weekly story hour held Saturday morning at the city library. She reported that the hour was steadi growing in popularity. Others this week are being held Saturday afternoon at Bethany and Sunday afternoon at College View.

accepted the legal paper handed him by a smiling young consular officer, the American courts were quick to fine him $100,000 for not appearing.

Qualifies as "World's Best."

Mr. O'Neil qualified as the world's best missing witness. In southern France alone five consular officers, two secret service operators, a dozen reporters and a weird collection of private detectives searched for him in vain. The hunt extended to Italy, Spain and North Africa. O'Neil was "reliably reported" as being in a monastery near Florence, Italy. Guards were posted on the Franco-Italian border at Vintimille.

During all this period of activity, when his name was being featured in connection with the approaching trial, O'Neil rested quite comfortably in a small building on his Cannes estate and probably chuckled heartily as he saw the various searchers toil up the steep hill to inquire for him at his villa.

$343,707,000 Crops Rank Nebraska As Sixth in Country

An increase in value of Nebraska crops from $323,524,000 in 1928 to $343,707,000 in 1929 brought the ranking of this state to fifth place in the nation according to the state and federal division of agricultural statistics. Nebraska ranked sixth in 1928 and during the past fifteen years has averaged ninth place ranking from fourth to eighteenth.

Most of those states ranking higher than Nebraska are much larger than this state. Texas placed first, followed by California, Iowa and Illinois in the order named.

TO ARGUE DEMURRER.

Arguments on the Great Western Sugar company's demurrer to the charge filed under the Sherman anti-trust act in Federal court at North Platte will be made at Omaha Monday morning. Caldwell Martin, general counsel of the company, and C. C. Dorsey, both of Denver, and Don Stewart of Lincoln, will appear for the defendant and an attorney from Washington will present the arguments for the government. The complaint charged the Great Western with conspiracy in restraint of trade. The company has filed a demurrer and plea in bar, claiming a former adjudication of the case.

DEATHS

Mrs. Neva Parris, 37, died at 8 o'clock Saturday at her home, 1741 P street, Havelock. She is survived by her husband, George, and a daughter, Mildred. The body is at Castle, Roper and Matthews' pending funeral arrangements.

HARRISON BANK FOUND SOLVENT

tongue-wagging," Mr. Woods said. "After the excitement subsided, the depositors' committee found that everything was in the best of shape. The people of Harrison and vicinity rallied to the support of their bank in a commendable manner, and their confidence and loyalty helped greatly in bringing about its early reopening."

Restrictions on Large Accounts.

As a precaution against the possible recurrence of what happened a month ago, the Harrison bank holds voluntary waivers from its depositors who have accounts of $500 or more, by which they agree as herewith:

On time deposits, not to withdraw more than 25 per cent during each period of 6 months, for a total term of two years.

On checking accounts, not to withdraw more than one-third in each period of six months in a total term of one and one-half years.

This is one of the rare instances where a bank that has suspended and later reopened remains in the hands of the same people who had previously owned and operated it. George Gerlach is president and J. L. Gerlach cashier. There has been no change in stock ownership.

Depositors, of course, are feeling jubilant over the fact that they did not have to accept a scaledown of their accounts, as is necessary in most cases. Each one was credited, at the reopening, with 100 per cent of the amount due him.

Any depositor having less than $500 in the bank is privileged to take the whole sum out if he should see fit; but nearly all the patrons have indicated their purpose of leaving their money in and giving the institution their support in every way.

WARNING IS ISSUED AGAINST POSSIBLE EPIDEMIC OF COLDS

The city health department is guarding against a possible epidemic of "colds" by distributing placards urging people to cover their sneezes and coughs. The cards warn that common contagious diseases often begin with an infection of the nose and throat.

"If you have a cold, it is better to remain at home and rest for a few days. Stand at least ten feet away from people when talking," the notices urge.

New Intangible Tax Forms Are Received

A sample of the new forms for intangible tax returns was received Saturday morning by County Assessor O. C. Bell. The forms have been changed from those last year so as to permit itemizing of holdings under each sub-heading. Instructions to the assessor and taxpayers are also contained on the back.

The intangible schedules have to be filled out and returned to the assessor by April 1. No notices are sent out relative to this assessment.

Samples of the forms for tangible schedules and corporation and franchise schedules were also received by Mr. Bell. No changes were made in these forms.

ATTACK ON DRY LAW OVERRULED

LaGuardia Loses Fight Against $15,000,000 Enforcement Fund.

New Yorker Claimed the Eighteenth Amendment Had Become Invalid.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — (AP) — The point of order that the Eighteenth amendment was invalid, raised against the $15,000,000 allotment in the treasury-postoffice supply bill for prohibition enforcement by Representative LeGuardia, republican, New York, was overruled today in the house.

Chairman Snell of the rules committee, presiding, made the ruling.

Snell said the point of order was not based on a point of constitutionality. The chair added that in view of the fact that none of the prohibition laws had been repealed there was ample authority in the law for the house appropriations committee to provide the fund for prohibition enforcement.

Amendment Said Invalid.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — (AP) — Arguing that the Eighteenth amendment had by its own terms become invalid, Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, today raised a point of order against appropriations for prohibition enforcement included in the pending treasury-postoffice supply bill.

The New Yorker contended that the amendment had never been properly ratified basing this assertion upon the third section of the amendment which says that the amendment "shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by the legislatures of the several states, as provided in the constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission thereof to the states by the congress."

This section, he said, came into force when the amendment as a whole was first ratified by thirty-six states. Coming into force at that time, he interpreted it as stipulating then that it must again be ratified by thirty-six states or at the expiration of the seven-year period the entire amendment became inoperative. Ten states, he said, had gone through what he saw as the necessary procedure of a second ratification.

Argues His Contention.

Asserting that "we cannot ignore Section 3 or brush it aside as meaningless," LaGuardia said, 'we cannot accept the theory which some will urge, that it had reference to the ratification of the amendment and has now no force or effect."

The section must be construed, he said, with the same rules of construction applicable to other sections of the amendment. The mere fact, he continued that the section described the method of 're-ratificatio to be the same as that required for original ratification indicates that Section 3 is a novel provision in our constitution limiting the life of the Eighteenth amendment unless certain contingencies in the future shall have taken place."

When reminded of a previous statement that this litigation should be out of the way before a special session of the legislature should be called, he answered:

"Yes, that is true, but I have never said definitely that a special session would be called."

The Supreme court's refusal to reopen the case ends all possibility of further litigation in the Nebraska courts. An appeal to the U. S. Supreme court can only be made if that court finds that there is a federal question, such as constitutional rights, involved.

The United States Supreme court considered the constitutionality of the Nebraska guaranty fund law some years ago and held it to be valid. It was that decision which was particularly relied upon by the State Supreme court in its recent ruling.

Point To Changed Conditions.

Bankers, however, have contended that conditions have greatly changed since the first ruling of the U. S. Supreme court, and that those conditions should receive consideration in the present litigation.

They have pointed out that while at that time the law was intended and operated only for the protection of the depositors, it is today being used to assess heavy assessments upon the banks for the payment of losses suffered by failed banks for the payment of losses suffered by failed banks, thus completely changing the purpose and effect of the law.

During the litigation, special assessments have been levied regularly but have not been paid. It is estimated that these now total between a million and a half and two million dollars. Unless an appeal is taken to the U. S. Supreme court these accumulated assessments will become due for payment as soon as the final mandate of the court is issued.

Grover Alexander Is Defendant In Big Damage Suit

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander was sued for $25,000 damages Friday by Roy H. Mason of St. Paul, Neb., theater owner there. The petition filed by Prince and Prince, attorneys here, was immediately withdrawn and no details of the suit could be learned.

Serve Dinner Of Vegetized Food Products

25 Representatives Of Gooch Company Are Guests.

A luncheon, every item of which was prepared with vegetables, was served to twenty-five salesmen and executives of the Gooch Food Products company this noon at the Lincoln hotel under the supervision of representatives from the Vegetized Foods, Inc., of Los Angeles.

According to N. L. Newman, vice president of the Vegetized Foods company, a new process of the company makes possible the vegetizing of almost any food, and adds needed vitamines to the diet of people disliking vegetables. Each article on the luncheon menu was prepared by the hotel chef, under the direct supervision of Mr. Newman. 'Women who wish to reduce will welcome the non-fattening qualities of vegetized food," declared Mr. Newman.

The non-fattening, non-acid forming menu consisted of vegetized noodle soup vegetized Perfection salad, vegetized macaroni a la Gooch, vegetized cheese with vegetized Melba toast, vegetized wafers with ice cream, and coffee and cigars.

U. S. AND BRITISH DELEGATES MEET

moved with a rapidity which filled the entire day.

The pressure of duties in the final rush of preparations became so heavy that most of the officials concerned cancelled the weekend plans previously prepared in order to hold themselves in readiness for immediate call.

Constant Activity.

Prime Minister MacDonald himself even abandoned the plan to spend Sunday resting at Chequers in anticipation of the double burden of the naval conference and parliament both opening the same day. The headquarters of the various delegations, as well as No. 10 Downing street, showed constant activity all morning as the work of organization went on went on rapidly for Tuesday's opening meeting.

It was stated authoritatively that the Anglo-American discussions at Downing street today were entirely general in their nature, technical problems not being touched upon. The chief subject of conversation was concerned with the obstacles which must be met by the conference in its first proceedings.

All the delegates spent the afternoon resting and making formal calls. Ambassador Dawes invited all to dine at the American embassy this evening.

A considerable crowd watched the arrival and departure of the American delegation and got its chief thrill from the maneuvers of a cameraman with an elaborate talking picture machine who rushed across the road when the delegates emerged and got busy with his apparatus. Extra police had been stationed around the entrance to the prime minister's residence, but they had no difficulty and merely watched the proceedings.

Mr. Stimson left London for his country home in Middlesex county shortly after luncheon, Mrs. Stimson having already gone there in the morning.

The Stimsons will entertain informally tonight.

At luncheon tomorrow, when Mr. Stimson entertains Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy, several of the Italian advisers and American advisers will be among the guests.

Mr. Stimson will come in from the country during the afternoon tomorrow and confer with Premier Tardieu at the French embassy.

Italy Wants Reduction.

LONDON, Jan. 18—(AP)—Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, calling upon Prime Minister MacDonald at No. 10 Downing street this forenoon, said Italy would strive not only for naval limitation, but reduction. "Limitation," he said, "might mean limitation at even a higher level than prevails now."

Signor Grandi expressed his satisfaction at meeting Great Britain's labor premier personally. He repeated Italy's program at the forthcoming naval conference, which convenes Tuesday, the principal points of which already had been communicated by Ambassador Bordonardo.

He expressed hope that the conference would reach a solution satisfactory to all and advantageous to peace.

Stimson Reassured.

LONDON, Jan. 18—(AP)— Reassured as to the distance Premier MacDonald proposes to go toward abolishing battleships, Col. Henry L. Stimson, head of the American delegation of the forthcoming naval conference, prepared today for his attempt to dispel French and Italian suspsions of an Anglo-American accord.

Tomorrow the American secretary of state will confer with Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and Andre Tardieu, French premier, in separate conferences. These are intended more than anything else to establish the acquaintanceship of Colonel Stimson with the two men on a firm foundation, permitting mutual understanding prior to opening of the five-power conference Tuesday.

Colonel Stimson will tell the two men, probably, that America and Great Britain have an ideal in common, that is limitation and reduction of the world's sea forces, not to a point where security is threatened, but sufficiently to reduce the heavy financial burden modern navies have come to be, and to remove large navies as a threat of war.

He will repudiate, possibly tactily and not in so many words, the suggestion which has been made on the continent that America and Great Britain have contracted an entente cordial, the co-operative nature of which is a threat to other nations, and that there is anything transcending an ordinary friendly alliance between them.

Colonel Stimson will be much more interested in conveying this idea to Signor Grandi and M. Tardieu than he will be in making an initial effort toward pacifying differences outstanding between their two governments, differences in which some observers already see a threat to the projected five power naval accord.

COLD ADDS TO FLOOD MISERY

Wabash River Drops Four Inches; Dike in White Stream Breaks.

VINCENNES, Ind., Jan. 18—(AP)—Zero weather carried on the wings of a sharp north wind brought added misery to marooned families in the flooded district of the Wabash and White rivers today.

The Wabash had dropped four inches here this morning, the gauge reading 24.9. The threat of flood danger here appeared over, but blocks of ice were appearing in the channel and may cause damage to bridge abutments.

The crumbling of 100 feet of levee on White river five miles south of Decker, Ind., yesterday afternoon poured a torrent of flood water over 20,000 acres of farm land in southwestern Knox county.

The levee had held back water to a depth of fifteen feet, and the levee was twenty feet high at the point of the break. The break was unexpected and came from below the water line.

The roar of water passing through the broken dike could be heard for five miles, but the water immediately spread out like an immense fan and the inundated area is only a few feet deep. Approximately 100 families were marooned.

Citiens of Decker, assisted by the Red Cross here, made immediate efforts to organize relief. Motorboats were sent down here on trucks and all available boats in Decker were pressed into service. Little was accomplished during the night because the wind made the waters rough and the motors were frozen.

had complete charge of all the work on the farm and during two years of his early experience there, was practically the head of the agricultural college in the absence of any acting dean. Mrs. Perin cooked for all the help then employed at the college.

Among the first work in which he was interested were swine plague and varieties of grain. When the Perins came to live on the farm there were only a few buildings on the place. Mr. and Mrs. Perin have seen all the present buildings on the campus completed.

In appreciation of his service, student editors of the Cornhusker Countryman, publication of the agriculture college, devoted a special article to Mr. Perin in the May 1926 issue of this magazine. In this article Mr. Perin is quoted as saying, 'In my service to the college of agriculture I have always done anything which had to be done right away and which no one else could get around to do."

Beside his ordinary duties, Mr. Perin was often called upon to meet the train with the official college "hack." It was his pleasure to meet Chancellor and Mrs. Burnett at the train with this "hack" soon after their marriage.

As the college developed and more experimental work was undertaken, the various departments of agronomy, animal husbandry horticulture, poultry and dairy husbandry gradually took over the duties of superintending these experiments, leaving Mr. Perin to take care of numerous details of management around the place. In the last years of his life, he drove a small truck about the campus and the farm doing the errands and the work of several men.

Officials of the college have not attempted in the last nine months to fill the position left vacant by the illness of Mr. Perin. Some of his duties have been taken over by the various departments, but the many little things of service which he performed are still missed by the college faculty and employes who honor and respect the man who gave so much of his life to the development of agriculture in Nebraska.

Tribute By Dean Burr.

"In the passing of S. W. Perin the university has lost one of the most faithful and efficient workers it has had in any capacity, and many of us have lost one of our most loyal friends," declared Dean Burr. "During the forty years that Mr. Perin was connected with the university its interests were always foremost in his mind, and he knew no limited hours of service. No matter what time of day or night that something needed attention, he was the first to be called and the first to respond. He loved the agricultural college and took a keen interest in its every activity.

"During his many years at the agricultural college he made numerous lasting friendships. Many of the young men who have attended the school and the college look back upon the many kindnesses he rendered them in helping them over the rough places that come to one in student life. He was a splendid type of man in every way.

"I have known no one who had to the same degree the quality of rendering personal kindnesses to those around him, and consequently few people have had more true friends. His passing is a deep personal loss to me."

Besides his wife he is survived by two daughters: Mrs. L. L. Labarrerr of Denver, and Mrs. George S. Reeder of Columbus; and two sons, Charles C. of Philadelphia and C. D. at home.

The body is at Hodgman's awaiting funeral arrangements.

statement, claiming that Rice lacks funds with which to appeal the case. It will ask that the expense of the appeal be paid by the county. If approved it will be the second appeal at county expense allowed within the last two months. Appeal of Harry Rego from conviction on a robbery charge at county expense was recently authorized.

May Revoke Barber Permit.

Steps have been taken by H. J. Walker, secretary of the state barber board, to have Rice's license as a barber revoked. Complaint against Rice was filed three weeks ago with State Welfare-Labor Secretary Pollard, signed by Walker on behalf of the barber board, asking that the license be cancelled.

A hearing on the matter was set before Secretary Pollard at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

PARK BOARD BUYS 900 ACRES OF LAND

Purchase of Site East of Gering For Game Reserve Completed At Cost of $2,172.

Purchase of approximately 900 acres of land south and east of Gering in Scottsbluff and Banner county for a state game reserve and park was completed Friday afternoon by the state game and parks commission, it was announced Saturday.

The tract was acquired at a cost of $2,172.50. It includes 640 acres of school land. This was under lease by an individual and was acquired by the commission by paying the lease holder $1,000 which was the amount he had paid for the lease. Another 160 acres was purchased outright for $922.50 while the Airedale Ranch and Cattle Co. was paid $250 for a 25-year lease it held on 100 acres. The commission also acquired options for future leases up to seventy-five years. If the land should ever be abandoned by the state the leases will revert to the original owners.

The tract is located in one of the most scenic sections of the state and on the state highway between Gering and Kimball. It is practically in its virgin condition and is said to ideal for wild animals. The entire tract will be fenced and stocked with as many of the native animals and birds as can be obtained. It is quite heavily wooded, being very similar to the foothills of the Blackhills in the extreme northwest corner of the state.

The commission also purchased a 100-acre tract two miles west of Kearney, in which is located Cotton Mills lake. This lake has an area of approximately 50 acres and is now well stocked with game fish. The commission expects to make this tract into a fishing and camping resort for central Nebraska people. It was ackuired at a cost of $4,000 following a foreclosure.

Winter's Hole, a lake near Norfolk was closed for fishing for one year by the commission. This lake was recently stocked with small game fish and is closed to permit them to grow and reproduce.

The digging of five flowing wells in Clear lake in Brown county was authorized. The work is already underway. The lake is quite shallow and it was feared that it would freeze to the bottom and kill the fish unless additional water was supplied immediately.

The erection of five windmills at Lake Quinebaugh, near Tekamah was also authorized by the commission for the same reason.

The commission will co-operate with the United States forestation department in an educational campaign intended to promote the distribution and planting of trees in Nebraska. It at the same time authorized the planting of trees on some of the state-owned land in the sandhills.

John G. Low of Kearney was appointed custodian of the Fort Kearny park which was recently acquired by the state. He will receive no compensation, at his own request.

Sixteen Fraternities Form Co-operative Buying Association

Provisions for a co-operative buying association for fraternities at the University of Nebraska were practically completed Saturday with the filing of articles of incorporation for the Fraternal Co-operative association with the county clerk.

Representatives of sixteen university fraternities were given as signers of the articles of incorporation. They provided for a non-profit organization to act as a purchasing and distrubting agency for fraternities. The organization is not for profit and has no capital stock under the terms of the articles.

Business was to be commenced immediately on the filing of the articles, they provided. They also provided for termination of the incorporation fifty years hence. The incorporation is not to be permitted to incur any indebtedness.'

A board of five directors will be elected annually who will choose their own officers. A faculty adviser to serve a two-year term is also provided for.

Names of the signers of the articles of incorporation are: Bernard M. Wilson, F. Russell Joynt, Gerald L. Larson, John W. Schrepel, Ernest P. Anderson, Richard J. Kelly, Wilber D. Currier, Alton D. Orendorff, Louis Kruse, Clifford D. Webster, James D. Elliott, A. J. Lewandowski, Edwin A. Paytinger, Robert Horney, Harold C. Swanson, H. W. Johnson.

Rail Commission To Conduct Four Hearings In Week

The following hearings will be held before the state railway commission next week.

Monday, application of the Central West Public Service Co. for permission to issue securities. Before Commissioner Miller at the capitol.

Tuesday, application of the Nebraska Continental Telephone Co. to install automatic service and increase its rates at Columbus. Before Commissioner Curtiss at Columbus.

Wednesday, application of the Union Pacific to revise its train service between Kearney and Stapleton. Before Commissioner Randall at Callaway.

Thursday, department of public works vs. Northwestern railroad Co. regarding a viaduct between Arlington and Kennard. Before Commissioner Curtiss at the capitol.

RULINGS ON MOTIONS.

The following rulings on motions for rehearing were made by the Supreme court Saturday:

Victor Deuert vs. Ralph and Charles Fetterman, Lancaster, oral argument allowed during session of March 17.

Theodore S. Miles vs. Bradford-Kennedy Company, Douglas, denied.

E. J. Impster vs. Byron Clark, Cass county, denied.

Lucie E. Hart vs. Henry Ogram, Dodge county, denied.

Henry H. Fries vs. Patrick H. Egan, Dawes county, denied.

Ella Eggert vs. Peter L. Hegeman, Dawes county, denied.

ORPHEONS GIVE ANNUAL CONCERT

High School Performance Will Be Repeated Tonight.

The Orpheons, Lincoln high school music society, presented the thirteenth annual mid-year concert to a well-filled house Friday evening in the school auditorium. The program was well arranged with music by the band, chorus, glee clubs and orchestra.

The two most prominent features were the Girls' Glee club when it sang, "The Snow," by Edgar, and the orchestra playing the "Song To The Evening Star," by Wagner, with a trombone solo by Frank Greenslit.

The tones of the Girls' Glee club were clear and the diction was especially fine. The violin obligato played in accompaniment by Marjorie Young and Dorothy Peterson, added just the right atmosphere to bring out the crescendo and the diminuendo of the piece.

The orchestra, which won the national contest last spring, made an excellent showing. The band played well, coming to a brilliant climax with "Humoresque," by King.

The A Cappella choir is the latest innovation in the Lincoln high school. The tones were clear, the balance fine, diction clear and the pitch was excellent. "Beautiful Saviour," by Christiansen, with the solo sung by Marjorie Compton and Lorraine Hummel, was superb.

Charles B. Righter, head supervisor of instrumental music; Glen M. Case, supervisor of vocal music, and Helen M. Stowell, instructor of vocal music; directed the program. The same program will be given Saturday evening.

PEASANT WILL GAIN CONTROL IN SOVIET RUSSIA

out and supervised by the finest engineering brains of America! Fruit orchards as great as California's, packing plants and canning establishments, improved breeds of cattle and sheep, great dairy farms, a thousand and one fantastic ideas planned in a way almost beyond conception.

And a Russian land to do all this in! Millions upon millions of acres of beautiful, rich, black soil lying like virgin prairies—the Iowa and Kansas and Nebraska of forty years ago, unfenced, open to the rain and sun and new ideas; spaces stretching beyond a thousand horizons, one-sixth of the whole earth; a land of the future; a land worthy to contest with great America for the world. A land and a future worthy of a new Walt Whitman to sing about.

Only That Which Is Improved.

And it is moving forward. It is all part of a superb will, an energy, a determination that is gaining life and vitality and strength from the mass power of a hundred and fifty million struggling, dreaming, discontended people.

It is the only necessary truth to know about red Russia, the little facts about the cruelty and the hard life and the dissatisfaction are unimportant.

The cities with their great 5-year plan of industrial efficiency are at last attempting along practical lines to get in tune with the Russian land, to modernize and industrilize it along with themselves. At last they are carrying the real revolution to the Russian masses, and the peasant masses are meeting them more than half way.

Here on the broad backs of these strong country folks the great social and economic upheaval must finally base itself. And once this broad foundation, this 8 percent, is educated, mechanized, modernized, it will come into its own. Eventually this four-fifths must rule; its voice must be the master voice of all Russia.

In the meantime it turns red in one great, overwhelming mass movement. It unconsciously knows that to get its tractors, its machines, its schools, new homes, its electric light, shoes, dresses, its silk stockings it must become part of the great Russian machine.

Almost eleven years ago, alone in Russia, with the world plotting and prophesying ruin and destruction of the soviet power and idea, I wrote that this new thing in the world would live and that some day the peasant would control it.

I repeat that now. But he will be a new peasant, a new stature. He will no longer be the ignorant, illiterate, superstitious peasant of the dark villages. He will be a man of the new world of machinery.

When that times comes this country will be his, and he will drive his tractor into the seats of the mighty in the Kremlin in Moscow.

FIFTEEN GUILTY IN EAST CHICAGO RUM CONSPIRACY

Mayor and Police Chief Among Those Convicted In Vice Drive.

Third Trial Growing Out Of Northern Indiana Investigation.

HAMMOND, Ind., Jan. 18—(AP)—Mayor Raleigh P. Hale, Chief of Police James W. Regan and thirteen others of East Chicago, including one woman, were convicted in Federal District court last night on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The convictions represented another chapter in the government's extensive campaign to clean out what it charged were widespread and wholesale violations of liquor laws in the Calumet district, which includes the Indiana cities of Gary, East Chicago, Hammond, Whiting and Crown Point. Gambling and vice under the protection of officials resulted from the liquor law violations, the government charged.

The trial that ended last night was the third growing out of the northeern Indiana investigation.

Rum Ring Charged.

Weaving in and out of the evidence presented by government prosecutors to both the special grand and trial juries was the trail of gangland and the liquor racket.

In the first trial—involving Gary police officers—three defendants were convicted, six acquitted and the jury disagreed as to eight others.

The second list of indictments also hinged upon liquor conspiracy of Gary officials—resulting from the seizing of a shipment of Canadian ale. The docket was cleared of these charges, however, when the government nolle prossed the case.

Besides Mayor Hale and Chief Regan, those convicted last night were:

List of Convicted.

Detective Captain Martin Jarkovich and Patrolman Patsey Ramey; Nick Sudovich, now serving a term for manslaughter in the Michigan state penitentiary; Phil Collenger, reputed business agent for "Scarface Al" Capone; Sanford Overall, Grice Chandler and Eldridge White, negro, resort keepers; Tom Thomas, John Antonion, Mrs. Bertha Popp, Tony Zalenski, Enrique Orta and Joe D'Angelo.

Constable Frank Bonaventura, Solidad Moreno, Detective Walter Conroy and Patrolman Ralph Hart were acquitted.

All the defendants were in court when the jury reported at 11:30 p. m., after being out since 11:20 o'clock in the morning.

Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick set February 15 to hear a motion for a new trial and sentencing.

The maximum penalty is two years imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

"Document" a Joke

Dr. William J. Maloney, above, of New York city, testified before the senate lobby investigating committee in Washington that he sensational "secret British document" referred to by William B. Shearer, big navy propagandist, was a satire which Dr. Maloney wrote and published in 1919. "It was a joke," declares Dr. Maloney, who said he never heard of Shearer until the investigation started.

Mae Clarke Gets Decree

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 18—(AP)—Having won a divorce by testifying that she did not care to compete against the four well known pasteboard queens for the affection of her husband, Mae Clarke, former stage actress now playing in the talkies, today became a member of filmdom's divorce colony.

Miss Clarke was separated from Lew Brice, vaudeville actor and brother of Fannie Brice. Miss Clarke testified her husband apparently became infatuated with cards and often remained away from home all night.

"After he started gambling he told me that any queen in the deck was better than I," she testified.

Kansas Girl Star of Opera 'Fidelo' Given at Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—After thirty-five years, Chicago last night heard again Ludwig Van Beethoven's only opera, "Fidelio," with a voice from Wichita, Kas., contributing to the performance's success.

Critics of this morning's papers had good things to say about Miss Kathleen Kersting's singing of the role of Marzelline.

"Miss Kersting would seem to have accomplished a debut and a success at the same time," said Edward Moore in the Tribune. The comment of Glenn Dillard Gutin of the Herald and Examiner was:

"Kathleen Kersting made pleasant display of the fresh, youthful warmth of her voice, and the finely wrought phrasing of her delivery stood out in clear relief."

Wichita Friends Attend.

Miss Kersting's parents and a group of Wichita friends were among those who attended the Kansas girl's American opera debut.

The performance of Miss Kersting, however, did not monopolize the interest of the critics who were more inclined to stress the production itself, particularizing on the baton of Egon Pollack and the singing and acting of Frida Leider as "Fidelio," Rene Maison as "Florestan" and Alexander Kipnis as Rocco, the jailer. Pollack's reading of the "Leonore No. 3" overture, which was used as an entre acte, "stopped" the show, the applause lasting several minutes.

GARRETT TELLS HIS OWN STORY

Daughter Angry Because He Had Her Marriage Annuled.

Denies He Made Any Threats Against Life of Kinsley.

CHADRON, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—"She held a grudge against me because I had her first marriage annuled and sent a sheriff to Colorado to bring her home."

Thus did Robert Garrett, on trial here charged with the murder of William Kinsley, Box Butte county farmer, in November, 1927, attempt to explain to jurors why his daughter, Mrs. Helen Ledlet, had testified for the state in his second trial on that charge.

Speaking for the first time in his own defense yesterday, Garrett denied making the assertions attributed to him by the daughter, that he had threatened to kill Kinsley. At the same time the accused man attempted to discount the testimony of several other state witnesses who stated that he had threatened the victim's life prior to the fatal shooting.

Corroborating the testimony of state witnesses that he secured a rifle, a shotgun and a pair of high powered field glasses from a second hand store in Alliance on the day of the murder Garrett testified that the guns were procured for use on a hunting excursion and not, as the state has attempted to prove, to shoot the Box Butte county farmer.

The hunting trip was abandoned, Garrett testified, when Ace Pippett, who was to accompany him, discovered that the tires on his car were weak.

Tells Of Movements.

Garrett outlined his movements on the day of the murder. At that time Kinsley is alleged to have been shot down in his home, Garrett was at the home of his father in Alliance, the accused man testified. His movements during the evening took him into Alliance, where he returned the gun, visited two cafes and a poolroom and then a dance.

Garrett sought to refute an important link in the state's evidence chain when he testified that tires of he same make and tread were on the rear wheels of his car at the time of the crime. The state has sought to prove that an automobile, driven from near the scene of the crime after the shooting was Garrett's. State witnesses testified that four different treads were noted in the trail left by the car which was supposed to have transported the murderer from the scene.

On the witness stand Garrett accused Alliance officers of missusing him after he had been arrested in connection with the crime. He also told of finding a dictaphone in his cell when he conferred with his lawyers.

"After several hours grilling I was chained to Sheriff Clark and taken to the undertaking parlor, where Kinsley's body lay," he stated. "There I was forced to roll the body over and tear away the gauze which covered the wound in his back.

"There is the man you shot' one of the officers stated."

Garrett denied making any threats against Kinsley as several state witnesses, including his daughter, have testified.

CHICAGO'S MONEY WORRIES INCREASE

Strawn Says City Short $27,641,600 Even If Back Taxes Collected; Banks Refuse to Buy Bonds.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—Chicago's financial troubles were being aired anew today.

According to Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizen's committee formed to seek financial relief, Chicago would still be in debt $27,641,600 even if the 1928 and 1929 taxes were collected.

Computation by the Herald and Examiner today showed a total of 28,844 unpaid employes in the city, county and public schools. This total, the newspaper said, would mount to 54,844 next week when additional salaries come due. The unpaid list includes 6,715 policemen and 2,869 firemen.

In the meantime, bonds and tax anticipation warrants offered for sale have found no buyers. The county board yesterday put $7,000,000 in tax anticipation notes on the market and none of the Chicago banks made offers.

Mr. Strawn made his disclosure at an address before the commercial club. He attributed Chicago's troubles to a "system of reckless finance which has grown up over a period of several years."

Coast Guards in Jail; Accused of Accepting Bribe

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 18—(AP)—Accused of accepting a bribe from a rum runner for the release of a seized speedboat, three coast guardsmen were under arrest in the Erie county pail today while a country-wide search was under way for a fourth man.

Coast guard authorities said the four guardsmen after seizing a speedboat in Toledo harbor accepted a $2,500 bribe from a Toledo bootlegger named Courtney for the release of the craft. The boat later was again captured and Courtney then made his chages.

Lieut. M. W. Rasmussen, district commander of the coast guard said one of the men under arrest had confessed. The men are Joseph Libby, W. E. Wynder and W. J. Blakesless. They are alleged to have received $500 each, while the missing men received $1,000. The men had been stationed at Port Clinton, O.

Three other coast guardsmen also are under arrest, but Lieutenant Rasmussen said they are charged with desertion and had no connection with the alleged bribery.

History in 500 Words
A Giant Motor
Why Have Battleships?
Crime's Loud Voice.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Calvin Coolidge will write a 500-word history of this country, to be carved in big letters on a mountain side.

Mr. Coolidge, laconic, will say much in 500 words. And enough could be said in fewer words, for instance:

Europeans landed on the east coast of North America, killed off the Indians and drove out King George, not liking taxation without representation.

They established industrial feudalism in place of military feudalism, and many money kings in place of one English king. They fought among themselves once, north against south. Now, all united, they are building a great nation, great prosperity.

There is danger of their going abroad to receive directions from a world court, or a league of European nations, instead of continuing to rely upon themselves.

The English are building a speed automobile described as "enormous and terrifying in appearance." With an engine of 4,000 horsepower, it is expected to break the world's speed record of 231.36 miles an hour. In spite of its great length 25 feet, the giant car, rising only three and a half feet above the ground, weighs only 11,900 pounds. It has two wide fins at the rear end, like those of a dirigible. Its 12 cylinders, cast in aluminum, are lined with a very light metal.

This is all interesting, for it means engine improvements that will be utilized in airplane construction later. They are useless on the ground.

The thing that interests the average man is to get the kind of automobile that will get him where he wants to go and bring him back, and that every man should do, rather than admit that his time is worth nothing.

MacDonald, intelligent British statesman, would abandon battleship building.

Our delegates to the naval conference do not want the battleship given up. But for their high character, you might think they had heard the siren voice of battleship and armor plate lobbyists.

Battleships are out of date, mere targets for airplane bombs, profitable only to their makers, costing 50 to 60 million dollars each.

Perhaps our delegates will hear from President Hoover, who is not out of date, and knows that Britain's great battle fleet played no part in the last war, primitive aircraft and submarines making it useless.

What would modern planes and submarines do?

Crimes speak louder than words, and very loud in this fair country just now.

A man arrested in Chicago, accused of participating in the "St. Valentine's day massacre," was delighted to find that "only policemen" were after him.

Said he, "I am glad to see you. I thought some guys were going to take me for a ride sure."

In Brooklyn, a dead body is picked up on the steps of a residence, probably thrown out of an automobile.

The police say: "A shake-down man, collector for gangsters, preying on bakers, very likely one of the crowd that killed Frankie Yale."

An that's that, as far as that criminal goes.

More interesting is the fact that the well-known gambler, Rothstein, whose murder puzzled New York's police, and baffled the district attorney, was probably killed by a man who will never be convicted, for the reason that he himself has since been murdered by Rothstein's friends.

Even our able corporations might learn something about efficient organization from our able criminals.

William H. Mullins, son of the late James Mullins, and like his father, among the most highly respected men in Ohio, gives to Salem a home for nurses. This gift, in memory of his mother, sets an excellent example to others that can afford to be generous.

Intelligent nursing is as important as the doctor's work, and nurses should be made comfortable.

Young Americans, wondering "if there is still chance," might study H. Mullins' start in business, on his own account. When very young, he saw a locomotive had been in a smash-up on the Fort Wayne road that he bought for its value as "scrap," set himself and two or three mechanics to work, restored, and sold it for enough to start what became a big successful business.

There are chances for those that have energy.

Removes Deadly Gas

Dr. J. C. W. Frazer, professor of chemistry at the Johns Hopkins university, who claims the discovery of a process to eliminate the deadly carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of automobiles. Carbon monoxide gas is produced by incomplete combustion, and Dr. Frazer's discovery is a chemical catalyst by which the monoxide is changed to carbon dioxide, a harmless gas. Several severe tests have proven the efficacy of his discovery, Dr. Frazer declares.

DAMAGING BLAZE RUINS SENATOR PITTMAN'S HOME

Shows Place of Suburban Washington Destroyed Early Saturday.

Loss to Exceed $50,000; Firemen Handicapped By Snow and Rain.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—Fire destroyed the home of Senator Key Pittman of Nevada early today, wiping out one of the show places of suburban Washington.

Senator and Mrs. Pittman escaped uninjured and were able to remove considerable furniture and personal effects from the reach of the flames.

The Pittman home is an extensive estate on Ridge road, near the Maryland line with extensive grounds overlooking the Potomac. The residence was a two and one-half story frame building. The upper stories were completely wrecked and the apartments below were badly ruined by water. Senator Pittman estimated the loss at from $50,000 to $75,000.

The senator said he was aroused by smoke at 3:30 a. m., and after awakening Mrs. Pittman they dressed hurriedly and proceeded to carry furniture outside, assisted by servants, whose quarters were undamaged.

Firemen Meet Obstacles.

The firemen encountered several handicaps in battling the blaze. Snow was falling heavily and this later changed to rain. Fire hydrants were at a considerable distance and hose lines from a quarter to a half mile had to be laid. All the apparatus in that section of the District of Columbia had to be called before sufficient hose was available.

First reports were that there had been an explosion also, but the firemen said this probably arose from the loud noise caused by the falling of the roof.

Pittman was unable to give any cause for the blaze, but said he suspected a defective flue.

AMERICANS TO 'LISTEN IN' ON NAVAL PARLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 18— (AP) —History, in the making far across the seas, is to be brought to the fireside of America's great radio family for the first time.

Opening ceremonies and daily and weekly reports of the five-power naval conference, to open Tuesday, will be carried direct from London to every nook and corner of the United States with the aid of short waves and two great nation-wide broadcast chains.

Both the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system have made elaborate arrangements to give listeners all of the details of the great meeting of nations. Both will broadcast the speech of King George of England opening the parley, which is expected to last several weeks and both have sent radio reporters to the other side to report by air on the progress of the discussions.

In the broadcast of King George's speech, which will be made from the royal gallery of the house of lords, ten microphones will be used. After the king's talk, it is planned to continue the broadcast to America for an hour or so to make available the speech by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, as well as initial addresses of some of the conference delegates.

The broadcast is to begin at 6 a. m., eastern time, January 21.

UNION FARMERS ARE UNDECIDED

Whether to Affiliate With National Body Not Determined.

OMAHA, Jan. 18—(AP)—If members of the board of directors of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative union of Nebraska today decide to affiliate their organization with the Farmers National Grain Corporation they will do so against the advice of members of the Farmers Union Co-operative Elevator federation of Nebraska, who yesterday voted against the proposal.

A definite decision is expected from the board here today.

The decision in the matter rests with the board of directors of the Farmers union, who were given permission to use their judgment in the matter after 500 delegates to the annual meeting here Wednesday refused to endorse the corporation's grain marketing plans.

Members of the elevator federation, in session here yesterday, voted to advise the board of directors not to permit the 20,000 members of the union to affiliate with the national group. The vote of the elevator officials was 13 to 7.

There was disagreement at the elevator federation meeting as to how accurately the 13 to 7 vote represented the views of other co-operative elevators of the state.

West End Unrepresented.

H. L. Click of Chadron, state director of the union, declared: "Western Nebraska produces more than half of the grain. Farmers out there and their co-operative elevators, which are not represented here today are overwhelmingly in favor of getting in with the Farmers ational Grain corporation marketing plan."

It was pointed out that only 26 out of more than 200 farmers union co-operative elevators had joined the elevator federation.

Chris Milius of Helvey, another director of the state union, asserted that to his personal knowledge several elevators in his district had not applied for membership for fear a decision to affiliate with the national marketing agency might be made at this time.

Officers of this federation were elected yesterday as follows: M. Witzenberg, Lincoln, field representative of the National Grain Commission company, Omaha, president; P. P. Ceder, Genoa, vice president; William Spiknall, Spencer, secretary treasurer. Other directors are Charles Gethman, Gurley; John Havekost, Hooper; Robert Campbell, Harvard; Harry Parmenter, Tutan.

NORRIS OPPOSES GRAND JURY USE

Offers Plan for Making District Attorneys Case Informants.

Favors Transfer Prohib Control To Justice Department.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—Speeding up federal court procedure by abandoning the grand jury system, except where necessity requires, is suggested by Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee.

Senator Norris offers this proposition as a counter proposal to the recommendation of President Hoover's law enforcement commission for trials by United States commissioners of petty offenders, which he is inclined to regard as unconstitutional.

The voluminous recommendations of the law enforcement commission are before Senator Norris' committee and will come up there for early consideration.

Supports Transfer.

Chairman Norris is ready to support the recommendation for transfer of the prohibition enforcement service from the treasury to the justice department— a proposal that has long been before congress.

However, there are some troubles ahead in the senate for the many other suggestions for strengthening th edry law, and out of it all there is little certainty that other than the transfer measure will get through at this session.

The Norris proposal for abandonment of the grand jury system would require a constitutional amendment. He feels however, that it offers a solution for the crowded court dockets. "It would not abolish the grand jury system, but he would permit prosecution of offenders upon information by the district attorneys, leaving it within the discretion of the judge to order grand jury hearings for indictments.

Likes Nebraska Law.

"We have such a law in Nebraska," Senator Norris explained. "As a judge there I found it very satisfactory. Not once did I have to order a grand jury to meet in order to make sure that the prosecuting attorney did his work thoroughly."

The law enforcement commission would have congress define certain law violations as coming within petty offenses, thus permitting trial by United States commissioners. Norris believes, however, the difficulties in the way of making such a definition are manifold? Moreover, he does not wan any step taken which will menace the contitutional right of all men to trial by jury.

WHEAT BID ABOVE MARKET PRICE BY FARMERS' AGENCY

OMAHA, Jan. 18—(AP)—For the first time in Nebraska since creation of the federal farm board more than the market price for wheat was paid here Friday by the National Grain Commission Co., marketing agency for the Farmers' Union of Nebraska.

George B. Johnson, manager of the company, paid $1.13 for two cars of No. 2 hard wheat, offered on the Omaha grain exchange at $1.12. The price of $1.13 had been set by the farm board as the minimum price for No. 2 wheat.

RURAL SCHOOL BURNS.

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—The Liberty school, a ten grade rural school near here, burned to the ground yesterday. The fire apparently was caused by a defective flue. A minor blaze which had started in the flue yesterday was extinguished with little damage resulting. The building was valued at $20,000. Classes will probably be discontinued for the remainder of the school year, it was stated.

BISHOP TUCKER DEAD.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 18—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Beverley D. Tucker, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of southern Virginia, died in a hospital here last night after undergoing an operation on Wednesday. He was 63 years old. The operation was performed in an effort to remedy injuries which the veteran churchman had suffered in a fall last November. Funeral services will be held in Charleston, W. Va., Monday.

BULLARD HEADS CHAMBER.

TCOOK, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—W. C. Bullard, local lumber dealer, has been elected president of the chamber of commerce here. E. C. Chitwood was elected first vice president, Dr. J. M. Willis, second vice president and Dr. J. G. Colgan, treasurer. A board of twelve directors was also chosen.

AUTO IS WARMED FOR HANDY THIEF

OMAHA, Jan. 18—(AP)—Eugene Cotterman couldn't get his automobile started, chiefly because of the fact that the thermometer read 15 below zero. Undaunted, he worked on it for an hour and a half and finally by dint of much warming and coaxing, he got the engine turning nicely. He left it running while he went in the house to inform his wife of his success. When he returned the warmed up car had been stolen.

THE COCONUT COW.

Latest figures obtainable with reference to importations of copra, from which coconut oil comes, for the fiscal year of 1927-28 reveal that 293,000,000 pounds was brought into the United States.

Of course it came in duty free from the South Sea Islands, where it cost manufacturers very little. It is manufactured into oleomargarine and other food products which compete directly with the produce from the American farm. But that is not the only instance wherein the Nebraska farmer, and his rural cousins in other agricultural states, got it in the neck when it came to applying the protective tariff principle. Palm oil, likewise extensively used in the manufacture of oleomargarine and crisco and similar products, was shipped in from the same South Sea Islands to the extent of 166,000,000 pounds during the same twelve months.

The size of the figures confuse comprehension.

It means very little to say that 293,000,000 pounds of copra, or 160,000,000 pounds of palm oil were brought in duty free to usurp the market for fats and oils from the American farm. But it is the equivalent of 226,500 tons of oil and it does not require any active imagination to foresee that it has a very appreciable effect in depressing prices for American farm produce. Oleomargarine is a butter substitute. In the last year the sales of oleomargarine in the United States were the greatest in the history of the industry and at the same time the price of butterfat and butter declined from 12 to 14 cents per pound. The drop of butter is blamed to over-production. Actually there is no overproduction of butter in America, but a continuous growth in the use of oleomargarine because it can be bought for 10 to 15 cents a pound cheaper than butter.

Certainly no manufacturer is confronted with such a situation as is revealed in a study of the conditions confronting the dairy industry at this time. The industrial plants receive their protection 100 per cent. But the farmer, encouraged and urged to develop other interests besides raising grain crops, discovers his market for butter invaded by a product, the principal ingredient in the manufacture of which is permitted to come into the United States duty free.

There is practically no expense in the production of copra in the South Sea tropics. The coconut trees grow in profusion and produce fruit in abundance. The native South Sea Islander, with nature providing him a living, has a wage scale which would not place salt upon the table of the average American family. The gathering of the [illegible]onuts, and the drying of the meat, is all play with this simple and primitive Islander, who never bothers his head about providing fuel for food for his family. Nature gave him fruits, and fish and meats in sufficient quantity to satisfy his hunger and to nourish his body, and Old Sol removes all fears or worries over coal and fuel oil. Cloth, woven from fibre, provides him with a covering for his body. That is the sort of competition which the American farmer, with his herd of blooded cattle, is expected to meet.

We repeat that the coconut cow is imperiling the progress of the American dairy industry, which is more important to agricultural stability and revival than any development in recent years. If congress, now considering tariff legislation, fails to place a sufficient duty upon copra, it will have failed the American farmer more dismally than in any matter in the last decade.

A PERNICIOUS JUDICIAL RULING.

How little regard for the laws and constitution of this country some magistrates in the larger cities have is well illustrated by the decision of a Chicago judge to the effect that the principals in a suit before him were governed by the ancient law promulgated by the Emperor Justinian of Rome, because they have never been naturalized as American citizens and are still subjects of the kingdom of Italy, although living in the United States.

Such doctrine is not only far-fetched from a legal viewpoint, but it involves an important matter of public policy. If the Chicago jurist's holding were generally followed, it would make aliens in the United States superior to and independent of its laws. That is something which the American people will never tolerate.

Of course anyone coming from a foreign land who does not take the steps necessary to acquire citizenship here remains a subject of the nation from which he emigrated, just as an American who goes abroad to live keeps his status so long as he does nothing to change it. Nevertheless, anyone who takes up his abode in the United States, or in any other country, is bound to obey its laws.

Nebraska, for instance, has a law prohibiting alien ownership of land. Suppose that Italy, France or some other country in Europe should enact legislation providing that its citizens going to other national jurisdictions should have the right to own land anywhere. Then, under the misguided reasoning of the Chicago judge, a person from that country could come into Nebraska and acquire and hold real estate in defiance of the statutory restriction. Would the people of Nebraska stand for that? Hardly. And neither would the people of Italy or France if the situation were reversed.

In view of Mussolini's effort to exercise sovereignty throughout the world over persons who have emigrated from Italy and their descendants, even including those who have foresworn their Italian allegiance and become citizens of their adopted countries, a judge who officially concedes that assumption of authority by the dictator cannot have the right conception of true Americanism.

Application of any such theory in the United States is inimical to our institutions and to the public welfare. Foreigners residing here must be given to understand that they are not immune from the laws which govern its own people. A judge who undertakes to make of them a specially privileged class in respect to noncompliance with American statutes ought to be removed from the bench.

RELIGION AND YOUTH.

A young pastor with a year's experience in his chosen field paints a gloomy picture of his efforts to interest youth in religion. The story is told in a recent magazine article.

He tells of the enthusiasm with which he began his task. He tells how he tried to avoid the pitfalls which often accompany attempts to secure youth's interest. Tolerant, kindly, loving, he went about his task. He felt the church was a religious center, not a gymnasium of social, and refreshment interests. He felt that youth could be interested in the spiritual vitality of religion. He felt if they could not there was nothing to be gained by resort constantly to non-spiritual interests in an attempt to lure them to the church. He recognized that what non-spiritual interests he could offer could not be as attractive as a highly alert scientific age could produce.

In the true depth of spirituality, he rested his hopes. The year found him with his hopes nearly shattered. He is convinced that youth today has no religious interest. He sees no way for such an interest to be regained.

It is a difficult thing to analyze spiritual interest. It is especially difficult with youth today. Youth's preference for a picnic to church may not mean loss of religion. His dissatisfaction with church may not mean he lacks interest in religion. The pastor has confused, as is so often done today, the church with religion.

The church is an institution. Religion is a life. Youth is full of life, anxious to live life. It finds religion on every hand. The spirituality of the world has not been lost. Scientific knowledge in some cases throws it into maladjustment. Cultural interests sometimes overshadow it. Social desires sometimes seem predominant. But through them all, the intimate personal quality of true religion rises dominant above them all.

There is the secret. Religion is today a more personal quality than it ever was before. In the midst of the greatest mechanization of the externals of life the world has ever witnessed, there has developed a greater ultimate individualization of the mind and soul. No two men have the same knowledge. No two have the same emotions. Each learns to be tolerant of the other. He finds in the differentiations of religious interest too subtle shifts of feeling to permit group avowals. Religion becomes more and more personal.

While the pastor is mistaken about the inner spirituality of youth as a whole, even though his judgment and fear may be justified in some cases, there is a real danger. While the church is but an institution, institutions have been found necessary to life. All that distinguishes man from animals lies in the institutions he has erected. In them he has found a means of fostering his higher interests. Individual as man is, he cannot separate himself from his fellows. His life is inextricably connected with theirs. He finds in every field of activity that cooperation is necessary for the promotion of the interests of all.

There is the field of the church. It can no longer be the source of religion. There are many sources. It cannot be the essence of religion. That lies hidden deep in the human heart and soul. The church is the medium by which a wide variety of spiritual interests may find a common expression. It is the medium through which the spiritual interests of man may be unified, not to destroy the values of personal religion, but to permit men to share with one another the deepest feelings of inspiration and of love.

"The Queen's Husband" Presented at Temple By University Players

"The Queen's Husband," a delightful and entertaining comedy in three acts, opened at the Temple theater Friday evening as the January production of the University players. Despite sub-zero weather conditions, a fair-sized audience witnessed the play and enthusiastically received it and the performance of its leading character, Ray Ramsay.

The story is centered about the trials and tribulations of modern royalty in an untitled country threatened with internal strife and revolution. The author, Robert Emmet Sherwood, who is editor of "Life" magazine and a dramatic and motion picture editor and critic of note, beneath the color and glamour of his story, weaves into the plot a touch of irony and sarcasm for many of the existing traditions and customs of royalty.

This ironical thought is expressed through the character of King Eric VIII, who because of his meek and mild disposition, inspires the title of the play as "The Queen's Husband." The king, who in America would pass for a good hen-pecked husband, is nothing more than a figurehead, and in his own words, "not a very ornamental one, at that."

Ray Ramsay comically portrayed the king and commanded uproars of laughter at frequent intervals. Although the play was generally well-acted, Ramsay occupied the center of the stage most of the time and kept the audience in a state of anticipation as to what would follow next.

The plot involves the determination of Queen Martha and General Northrup, prime minister, to marry Princess Anne to Prince William of another untitled country for political reasons. Princess Anne loves her father's secretary, Frederick Granton. The king is aware of this and desires to help her but dares not oppose the queen. Yet love for his daughter triumphs, causing him to assert himself over all others as the ruler of the land.

W. Zolly Lerner as the fiery General Northrup, Mildred Orr as the beautiful Princess Anne, Walter Vogt as Frederick Granton and Maurine Drayton as the stern Queen Martha were impressive in the chief supporting roles.

The cast of characters follows:

Frederick Granton	Walter Vogt
Phipps	Edwin Quinn
Lord Barten	Richard Page
Petley	Paul Thompson
Princess Anne	Mildred Orr
Queen Martha	Maurine Drayton
Ladies in waiting	Eleanor Poley, Gertrude Sullivan
General Northrup	W. Zolly Lerner
King Eric VIII	Ray Ramsey
Major Bient	Art Singley
Dr. Feilman	Harlan G. Easton
Prince William	Jere Mickle
Laker	Al Tiffany

Farm Mortgages Are Discussed by Hoover

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—President Hoover today discussed the farm mortgage situation in the middlewest with B. H. Mallory of Hampton, Ia.

Mallory was introduced to the president by Representative Robinson, republican, Iowa. After the conference both Mallory and Robinson said the president had shown an unusual understanding of the farm mortgage situation.

Ninety Take Teachers Exams—Nearly ninety girls, bundled in overshoes and coats because of inadequate heat took teachers' examinations Saturday morning at the office of the county superintendent of education. All but one of the candidates for a teaching certificate were trying for third grade certificates. One was apply for a second grade certificate. Further examinations were being given Saturday afternoon.

78 Lincoln Firemen Get Certificates

Red Cross First Aid Awards To Be Made Tuesday.

In recognition of the completion of an eight weeks course in first aid instruction, seventy-eight Lincoln firemen will be presented Red Cross first aid certificates Tuesday noon at the regular luncheon of the Rotary club at the Lincoln hotel.

Ten of the eighty-eight firemen who enrolled in classes held in the locker rooms of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. were, because of limited time, unable to complete the course, which ended December 11. Classes were held in the evening and the American Red Cross textbook on first aid used for study.

Fifteen lessons of two hours each are included in the standard course, which embraces principles and practices of first aid. The seventy-eight graduates will cotinue with the advanced course, which has similar requirements and gives the graduate an approved teacher's rating.

Classes were directed by E. F. Burke, first aid instructor of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co., Lester Pierce and George Keith, members of the company's first aid team and holders of Red Cross advanced course certificates.

The idea of first aid instruction for firemen originated with Chief Hansen as a means of increasing departmental efficiency in emergencies in absence of physicians. Each fire truck has been equipped with a complete first aid kit.

The awards will be made by Dr. B. F. Bailey, chairman of the Lancaster county Red Cross.

QUESTION.

Geneva, Switzerland.

Your references to the noble working girl of today are too much for the gravity of some of us.

When you speak of her as the future mother of men it is too funny. She has no intention of becoming a mother if she can possibly help it, and looks upon those who are such as fools. What she is doing to those fools deserves a place in a zone not mentioned in polite society.

She is neither man nor woman. She depends almost entirely upon her sex appeal to the married man of her business acquaintance for her promotion, and permits nothing to stand in the way. She is not always immoral as we know the word in decent society, but she uses every means in her power to take the minds of these men away from their wives and children and keep them interested in order to make money for herself. Yes, she works, but not entirely as did the former bachelor girl in her position, aiming to get along, marry and raise family. She wants the luxuries of life entirely for herself.

The young unmarried men in her business life seldom hold positions influential enough to be of any assistance to her, and she is far too sophisticated and ambitious for romance. The brainless flapper is not nearly as dangerous as these women who are usually from 25 to 35 years of age. What intelligent well-bred man would risk his standing or find continued pleasure in the society of a silly flapper? Not one! Will you not be kind enough at least to investigate this side of the question before saying anything further for the encouragement of the "noble working woman?"

ANSWER.

I have published your letter not for its intrinsic value, but to show how some people regard a girl who works for her living. Your accusations of her are too sweeping and bitter to be taken seriously. How many of the countless young women who have to earn their livelihood, or prefer to do so, do you know? Probably a baker's dozen. Yet on this slender basis you proceed to libel the whole group. It cannot be done truthfully, so it should not be done at all.

Select a specimen of the type you accuse, make her your beacon of warning and you do a social service. But this is very different from your description of the girls and younger women who crowd the streets of New York and other cities as everywhere ready without exception to break up homes, seduce married men and sacrifice everything becoming their sex, even their virtue, in order to obtain a few extra dollars for finery, pleasure or more speedy office promotion.

You suggest that I investigate this matter before saying anything further. Don't you think the need for investigation is on your side of the fence? Direct it toward yourself and clean out the cynicism, supercilious pride, false logic and hasty judgment which infect your soul. There are married women who live below the level of the so-called fallen woman, and brainless flappers who fool with luring flames and working girls who betray their order. But when they are all reckoned in the total of American womanhood it remains as the rock on which we build the home and the nation. I still believe in the working girl, next to the mother, as one of the finest exhibits of our feminism.

QUESTION.

I am a middle aged woman, just beginning to feel the need of religion, guilty of certain things the churches condemn, yet aware that if I had to face the same circumstances I should probably repeat things. How can I get spiritual help and comfort?

Kindly omit address.

ANSWER.

There can be no forgiveness where there is no repentence. Indeed, the unrepentant do not feel any need of pardon, because their iniquitiy is hidden from their eyes. Your attitude can hardly be called a penitent one. Yet you are troubled about the past and anxious to prepare yourself for the future. Why not be as candid with God as you would require your child to be with you? Then ask Him to grant you the blessing of a truly contrite heart.

Do not unnecessarily complicate your problems, however, by asserting that you would repeat the offenses which make you uneasy. In the first place, you do not know that you would do so, and in the second place, what you need is pardon for your actual sins, not for hypothetical ones. The most sinister thing about sin is that once done it can never be undone. But we can repudiate it and God will not hold repudiated wrong-doing against us. "As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgression from us." What an exhaustless expression of His loving kindness that is! You may inquire how you can know that such a removal has been effected for you. The answer comes in the peace which overflows the penitent and forgiven soul. Read the Scriptures, the hymns, the devotional books, the confessions which exhalt that peace. It is the calm of a divine-human reconciliation, the indestructible satisfaction of a restless love.

A QUESTION of HONOR

by Ruth Cross

SYNOPSIS: Anne Wilmot visits the mountain cabin of Scott Glann to flirt with him, but was left breathless and confused by the toll she paid. She determines to avoid Glenn as she waits for Leon Morse to ask her hand in a loveless marriage. Morse is busily engaged in dark plots against Glenn whose irrigation dam that blocks Morse's right of way for a railroad nears completion. Two weeks later, on her daily walk in the mountains, Anne becomes lost. In her wanderings she comes upon Glenn and Sheb. She flees from Glenn who follows and finally stops her.

Chapter 18.

ENCHANTMENT.

Anne's cheek went from scarlet to white. She wrenched fiercely at Glenn's casually restraining hand on her shoulder. All the smouldering rage and humiliation of weeks surged up hotly. "I suppose you want to tell me that I have tracked you down again— that——" She broke off from sheer inability to keep the quaver out of her voice. She was trembling from head to foot.

"Now, see here," he reasoned calmly "as far as that night after the storm's concerned, I've already apologized for it —abjectly—in the letter you refused to read, and I don't intend to do it again——" Humor still lingered unmistakably in his grey eyes. "For the rest, it was true, wasn't it? You wanted to strike the spark you're used to seeing in a man's eyes, and—if you got scorched a bit in the subsequent conflagration, you ought to have been a good sport and taken it as a matter of course."

Anne to all appearances was not paying the slightest attention to anything he said. She stood looking angrily about for some means of escape. Glenn went on, however, unperturbed, "What I principally had in mind, though," he said, "was to ask your pardon for boring you with all that stupid talk about myself and my work that afternoon. I was idiot enough to be hurt and offended because you were bored."

In her surprise, Anne lost sight of the fact that she was supposed to be deaf. "But I was not bored."

He smiled. "Your sigh was a mighty good imitation then."

"I sighed because I—I envied you," Anne said slowly, looking down at the toe of her boot. Her anger was ebbing, leaving her ill and faint.

"Envied me?" he echoed incredulously.

"Yes, I envied you—your work, your usefulness, your enthusiasm. You see, I've never done anything or—been anything worth while—" She threw out her hands in an unconsciously futil gesture.

"Oh, you can't mean that," he protested seriously.

She nodded, still without looking at him. "Yes, the only real interests I've ever had in life have been spending money and—flirting.

"When I met you—that morning at the spring—But what's the good of telling you? You saw through me at once and—despised me as I deserve. Now, let me go home."

"I must have a look at those scratches first," he reminded her gravely, and swabbed the swelling red welts copiously with antiseptic from a little bottle he carried.

"Now, if you'll show me the trail," she suggested.

He propped one foot against a fallen log and leaned toward her, smiling. "You can't possibly find it alone," he informed her. "Besides, I'm not through yet. The main thing I wanted to tell you is—I'm going to marry you."

Anne started to laugh ,then observed with malicious gravity, "There's just one objection to that, I promised Sheb I wouldn't!"

"Why, we don't even know one another," she protested lightly, still declining to treat the matter seriously.

"That's not true," he said, looking straight into her eyes, "is it?"

"Of course it is," she laughed, avoiding his gaze. And— I must really be going." She made a decisive move to pass him, but he only stayed himself more firmly against the log.

"No, you can't get out of it as easily as that. You see, you've started something this time that you can't stop."

"Please—I must go." Anne made another movement to slip past him. He halted and held her; drew her towards him, one hand on either elbow. "You know it was bad policy —letting me kiss your hand that first morning and then—the other —Unless you meant to go through with it—It set up a sort of unquenchable thirst!" He bent over her, his eyes golden with light.

She twisted her head away with a quick deft move. "No," she said in a low, imploring tone, "No, no—"

"No—? Are you sure?"

He did not wait for her answer; perhaps he read it in her panic-stricken eyes. Not even a rustling in the bushes was able to break the spell of the long, exquisite interval that followed. Finally, Anne leaned back dizzily against his arms, her eyes still closed. "What have you done?" she murmured.

He laughed under his breath. "What have we done?" he corrected.

She did not reply. She was already dreaming vaguely the moment when she must open her eyes and dispel the enchantment which seemed to enclose her in a charmed circle with his arms. "You can't really mean that you want to marry me," she said in a whisper, "when you know what I'm like—"

"I'm not afraid—I know I can hold you. Leon Morse never could."

The last words brought her at last sharply to her senses. She punshed him away from her rather dazedly. "I must be getting back to the Lodge," she said, "and —if I ever marry anyone, it will have to be Leon Morse.' '

"Have to be?"

"Yes, I am in honor bound to my aunt—" In answer to his questioning glance, she went on, "I owe her everything. She has spent every cent of her fortune that she can possibly get hold of on me—expecting, of course that I would some day—It was sort of gentlemen's agreement, you see—"

"I see," Glenn said gravely, "and what is the—total damage?"

"Oh, a million times more than I'm worth! You have no idea how sinfully extravagant I am," she went on slowly after a time, "I could spend all the gold in these mountains—or all that ever has been mined!

"No, Leon Morse is my only way out, and I shall certainly marry him—if he ever decides to ask me!" Her lips twisted in a mocking, self contemptuous smile

He did not speak. Instead, he turned and led the way toward a trail not a stone's throw away. They tramped along side by side for some time in silence. "Suppose," he said at last, "one could make that good to your aunt—ransome you, as it were, from the enemy?"

She shook her head. "It is absolutely out of the question."

"I'm not so sure.' '

Presently they came out on a high bluff, down whose side the trail turned and clambered precipitately. Glenn drew out a pair of field glasses along with some unnoted specimens of the rock which he had crammed into his pocket at first sight of Anne. "You must see this," he said, "it is one of the most magnificent prospects in all the Sierras."

"You're trying to tempt me by showing me all the kingdoms of the out-of-doors!" Anne said as she gazed upon the scene.

Before he could answer, the attention of both was distracted by a sudden stirring in the undergrowth just beneath the bluff. Glenn put the glasses in his pocket and walked to the edge of the cliff scanning the foreground intently.

Anne stood motionless

Anne stood for some moments motionless, watching him. After a time, she stooped absently and picked up one of the fragments of rock which had rolled to her feet; she had no idea that it had fallen from Glenn's pocket. She played with it idly for a moment and finally put it into a pocket of her sweater.

"I must have been a deer," Glenn explained coming back to her.

A little farther down the trail, they came on Sheb. He was sitting exactly where thye had left him his head in his hands, Japheth stretched slumberously at his feet.

Glenn looked at his watch. "If you don't mind," he said to Anne, "I'm going to let Sheb take you the rest of the way. I have to be at the works by 6." He took her hand and looked down at her earnestly. "You will let me see you again, won't you, very soon? I'll send Sheb for a note."

Sheb and Anne started off down the trail. Glenn stood, hat in hand, watching until they were out of sight, then turned and walked off rapidly in the opposite direction.

But Anne had not reckoned with Leon Morse nor Douglas, her enemy. New complications develop Monday.

ANTI-SALOON DELEGATES GO SIGHTSEEING

DETROIT Jan. 18—(AP)—Delegates to the national convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America today took time out from their program of reports and speeches to make sightseeing trips in Detroit and Canadian cities across the Detroit river.

The entire afternoon was scheduled to be given over to this business. Convention committeemen arranged for guides to show the visitors through Canadian government liquor stores in Windsor and other border cities. Visits to Canadian export liquor docks also were scheduled.

Speeches by a number of state superintendents who reported conditions in their respective states and made suggestions for furthering the league's program made up the program of the morning session. The convention banquet was scheduled for tonight. William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, Justice Florence E. Allen of the Ohio Supreme court and P. H. Callahan of Louisville, Ky., prominent Catholic layman, were speakers for the banquet.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Two Cousins Happen to Meet

By THORTON W. BURGESS

When things have not been going well
Your wrongs you sometimes like to tell.
—Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel had been a little late in getting home one night. In fact, Chatterer was getting a bit nervous. The Black Shadows had begun to creep through the Green Forest. He had a feeling that Hooty the Owl was already abroad. So when he finally reached his home tree and scrambled up to the entrance to his home he gave a little sigh of relief. He was just entering it when a sharp voice said: "Aren't you out rather late, Cousin Chatterer?"

Chatterer turned around and poked his head out of his doorway. "Who spoke?" he demanded somewhat sharply.

"I did," replied the same voice.

This time Chatterer discovered the speaker. He was sitting on a branch just over Chatterer's head. "Oh, it's you, is it?" said he. "What are you doing out, so early?"

"It isn't so early," replied Chatterer's cousin, Timmy the Flying Squirrel, for that is who it was. "This is the time I usually come out. I'm not early, but you are late. I hope everything is going well with you, Cousin Chatterer."

"Not so well that it couldn't go better," replied Chatterer, who was still smarting from his discovery that he could no longer get into Farmer Brown's corncrib.

"What's the matter," asked Timmy.

"Well," replied Chatterer, "I've been living on corn—nice, yellow corn. I've had it for breakfast every day for a long time. Now I can't get it. I can get a few grains, but that's all. It is only when somebody drops those that I can ever get a taste of corn now.' '

"That's too bad," said Timmy. "I wouldn't mind a little corn myself. Just how did you get this corn? And if you could get it one time, why can't you get it now?"

Then Chatterer told him all about his troubles. He was just aching to tell somebody. He told Timmy how he had discovered a clothesline reaching from a clothespost to a corner of the corncrib, and how he had used it as a bridge. He told him also how his

"Oh, it's you, is it?" said he.

bridge had disappeared and how he suspected that Farmer Brown's Boy had taken it down. He told Timmy how he had discovered a broken branch hanging down over the corncrib from a maple tree and how he had used this to get into the corncrib. He told him how he had discovered that that branch had been cut off, and again he blamed Farmer Brown's Boy.

"I don't think he knew I was using that branch," said Chatterer. "I think he just happened to cut it off because it was hanging there. But anyway he stopped me from getting into that corncrib."

"That's too bad," said Timmy. "That certainly is too bad. I can guess how you must feel. I wish I could help you, Cousin Chatterer. I do so. Well, it is time I was doin some hunting before it gets any darker. Pleasant dreams, Cousin Chatterer, pleasant dreams."

With this, Timmy leaped from the branch on which he was sitting and sailed smoothly and easily down through the dusk as if he were coasting on the air. He landed on the foot of another tree and scampered up. Chatterer lost sight of him then and went down into his warm nest to dream of Farmer Brown's corncrib and of some way of getting the corn.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children."

DOCTOR ADVISES ULCER VICTIM ON NUMEROUS DIETETIC POINTS.

C. has had a duodenal ulcer. She wants the following questions answered:

1. "Is baking soda harmful?"

Ans. Sodas and other alkalies are frequently given for medication in the beginning treatment of ulcers, in connection with the ulcer diet (meals every two or three hours of milk or milk and cream, egg mixtures, or whatever the doctor in charge has had success with), and taken once in a while after the cure, it is probably not harmful. But if you are having any symptoms, you should go back to your doctor and see if you shouldn't go back on the original curative diet.

2. "Do fried eggs, corn, whole wheat bread and eggs aggravate the condition?"

Ans. One who has had an ulcer always has to be more or less careful of certain foods. If you find they do aggravate, it is best to not use them.

3. "Do ulcers affect the eyes?"

Ans. I don't find eye complications listed as a result of ulcer, but it is possible for any prolonged under-par condition to also include the eyes.

4. "Is smoking hard on ulcer?"

Ans. Yes, decidedly so. In fact, the gastric disturbance caused by smoking can closely simulate ulcer. It apparently increases the hyperacid condition.

5. "Wouldn't a small amount of good whisky help strengthen my stomach?"

Ans. No, decidedly not. Alcohols and tobacco are to be strictly avoided. They markedly irritate chronic ulcerous conditions.

6. "Should one eat between meals?"

Ans. Yes, frequent and smaller meals are advised. Something should be eaten every three hours. It is advisable to have a few crackers or a glass of milk, or half milk and cream, at this time, between meals. This food engages any free acid which has formed which will irritate the organ. It is a good idea to have some food at the bedside to take if waking during the night.

7. "Should no acid foods be eaten?"

Ans. The citrous fruits, and tomatoes, for instance, are acid-tasting, but they leave an alkali ash in the body. However, in conditions of irritated stomach and intestines they cause some irritation before they are digested, and so may have to be avoided for a while. But if fruits and vegetables are avoided too long, vitamin C (the anti-scurvy vitamin) may be deficient, and a state at least bordering on scurvy may be brought on. This, of course, adds to the complications of the original disease. For a while it may be best to get the vitamin C from the bland fruits, especially bananas, melons and mild apples, thoroughly masticated. But physicians are giving the citrous fruit juices much sooner than they used to.

NO TRACE OF LOST AIRMAN

Thirteen Army and Navy Planes to Hunt For Pilot Graham.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 18—(AP)—Maurice Graham, veteran Western Air Express mail pilot missing in rugged, snow-covered eastern Nevada since January 10, today became the object of a search intensified by participation of army and navy aviators.

Six army pursuit ships and one army transport plane were ready to take off from the local airport, while six navy pursuit planes were poised at March field Riverside, Cal., for flight here to assist in the hunt.

Graham's employes believe he landed safely in spite of a snow storm which is known to have forced him west of his course in treacherous country and are clinging to hope that he found shelter and still is alive.

LOSS BY FIRE AT PICKRELL HEAVY

Weak After Operation

"About five months ago, following an operation for appendicitis I did not gain strength enough to be up and about. My mother and sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken five bottles and it has helped me to get strong so I can do my own housework now. I have recommended it to several friends who have been weak and rundown."—Mrs. Oscar Ottum, Box 474, Thief River Falls, Minn.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 18

Despite evident paucity of export demand for wheat from North America, wheat values in Chicago went upward today with a good deal of force. The chief incentive was action by the National Grain corporation in raising bids here 2c a bushel for country run wheat. On the other hand, Argentine wheat prices today closed 1⅜c a bushel lower, indicating that sharper competition from below the equator is forthcoming in supplying the wheat import needs of Europe.

Wheat in Chicago closed unsettled, ½c to ⅝@1c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. (Mar., $1.23¼ to ⅜; May, $1.27⅝ to ⅝@½; July, $1.29¼ to ¼.

Corn closed ¼c to ½c up, (Mar., 90⅝c; May, 93⅝ to ¾c; July 95⅞c).

Oats ⅛c to ¼c advanced, and provisions showing 5c to 12c gain.

Advances of 2c a bushel made today by the National Grain corporation for purchases of wheat arriving in Chicago from rural sources put considerable fresh vigor at times into the market for future deliveries, but gains failed to hold well. One reason for reactions was that the advance of the National Grain corporation's bids applied only to country run wheat, and that the advance was restricted to the Chicago market, explanation being that the Chicago basis for bids had been out of line with the basis elsewhere.

A further drag on the Chicago wheat futures market was the fact that early indications pointed to lack of any large amount of North American export business, and that Buenos Aires quotations showed a sharp downturn. Furthermore, the Winnipeg wheat futures market appeared slow to follow advances in Chicago, and traders here were keeping sharp watch on Winnipeg fluctuations, as narrowing of the spread between Chicago and Winnipeg was regarded as likely to handicap export dealings in domestic wheat, and give an advantage to Canada.

Corn traders took their cues today largely fro mthe action of wheat. Country offerings of corn to arrive were small, but eastern shippin gdemand here was slack. Arrivals of corn in Chicago today totaled 114 cars, against 101 cars a week ago, and 263 cars at this time last year.

Corn prices were strengthened by announcement that co-operatives would start to buy cash corn, at northwestern markets in the next few days. Commission houses here were moderate buyers. There was some selling, though, no expectation of larger receipts next week. Oats were unsettled, wtih a moderate trade.

Provisions refelected upturns in the value of hogs.

New York Cotton.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.

The cotton market was under selling pressure here this morning, and prices declined from 6 to 11 points. January was 6 points lower at $17.14, March off 8 at 17.30 as was May at 17.50; July was 7 points lower at 17.67 ,while October and December were each off 10 to 11 points at 17.64 and 17.71 respectively.

The pressure to sell was occasioned by depresing news from Liverpool regarding American cotton abroad, and by a decrease in spinners takings for the week. Liverpool cabled that spot sales so far this month have amounted to 84,000 bales, of which 40,000 were American cotton, compared with 158,000, of which 115,000 were American from January 2 to 17 in 1928. While sales of American staple this year were only 35 per cent of those in the similar period two years ago, sales of foreign grown cotton amounted to 44,000 bales against 43,000 in 1928. With the marketing of India's new crop, supplies are reaching England and the continent in increasing quantity.

The week end figures here showed an increase in the general visible supply of 11,000 bals, against a decrease of 120,000 at this time last year. The world's visible supply of all kinds aggregates 8,151,000 bales, or about 400,000 in excess of a year ago. Spinners have taken 430,000 fewer bales than at this date last season, while the into sight figures show the south has marketed 175,000 bales more than at this time last season.

Cotton bears took the cue from these figures, and sold the market short. Prices were still depressed after the first hours trading, with March at 17.31, May at 17.51, and July 17.66.

Liverpool Cotton.

By International News Service.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Jan. 18

COTTON—The demand for spot cotton was limited here today, and prices were easier. Sales totaled 2,000 bales. Receipts were 16,000 bales.

Middling fair was at 10.79d.; strictly good mids, 10.33d.; good mids, 9.93d.; strict mids, 9.73d.; mids, 9.48d.; strictly low mids, 9.18d.; low mids, 8.68d.; strictly good ordinary, 8.33d.; good ordinary, 7.93d.

Futures were barely steady; March, was at 9.22d.; May, 9.31d.; July, 9.35d.; October, 9.32d.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18

After reaching the lowest price levels of the week as the result of a bear reaid on the stock marekt today, industrial stocks railied sharply near the end of a dull and featureless session, and closed the day with moderate gains. Leaders in the final rally included United States Steel, General Motors, Anaconda Copper and a few other well known shares in these important groups.

Confident of beating the market into a lower level of prices, the bears launched a savage attack on the industrials, opening up numerous stop-loss orders. Fox Film A tumbled about 5 points to 18 and Kolster Radio reached a new low price.

United States Steel pushed ahead to 169¾ in the final period and closed at the top. General Motors was well bought around 39½ and closed at 39⅝, up more than 1 point. American & Foreign Power and well known utility stocks recovered the most of their early losses and as a rule the oils finished the daybehindmoderate advances. Stock sales aggregated 1,327,200 shares.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18

Bond prices were irregular in a dull and featureless week-end market, further reactions in the stock market were reflected in the moderate declines in prices of convertible bonds, the demand for which was comparatively small.

Liberty bonds and treasury issues practically disappeared from the active bond list, only a few of the fourth 4¼'s having sold at fractionally lower prices. Except for the Peruvian 6's of 60, which rose 1⅝ to 74⅝, the foreign list was inactive and unsteady.

American Tel. & Tel. convertible 4½'s, the most active of the speculative bond list, sold up fractionally at 138 and International Tel. 4½'s down ½ tt 119½.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18

Industrial and utility stocks in all sections of the curb market were forced downward in the week-end session today by the renewal of the selling pressure on the speculative leaders which has been in evidence since the middle of the week. Against this selling pressure stocks fell away to the lower levels, with the widest fluctuations recorded in the high priced specialties.

American Gas & Electric led the downward movement in the utilities and sold off 2½ points at 117½. The stock warrants of the American & Foreign Power company declined 2 points to 65⅛ and Electric Bond & Share declined 1⅝ to 81⅝. Fractional losses were sustained by Ameriacn Superpower, Allied Power, United Gas and Middle West Utilities.

Aluminum Company of America lost 10¼ points at 275, leading the decline of the high priced specialty stocks. Newmont Mining was down 3⅛ at 10½.

Investment Trusts, though slipping off to a fracaionally lower level of prices, were in good demand at concessions in market values. Fourth National Investors lost ½ at 35½, Blue Ridge was down ¼ at 7¼, Lehman down ½ at 76½, Shenandoah down 1-5 at 9 and Trans-America down ⅝ at 42⅝.

Oil stocks followed the trend of the oils on the big board, Humble losing a point at 78 and Gulf Oil down fractionally at 135. Week-end business and industrial reviews weer encouraging and investment buying was reported in some sections of the market.

DRAWING NEARER CHURCH MERGER

New Steps in Uniting of Congregational and Christian Groups.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 — (AP) — New steps in the merger of the Congregational and Christian churches, to a great extent effected last year, are expected to be taken by the annual national conference of Congregational executive boards and officers which opened a five-day meeting today.

In particular a closer union of the home and foreign missionary work of the two denominations is an aim of the conference, which also will announce the consolidation of the two religious papers published by each denomination. The new church organ is to be known as "the Congregationalist and the Herald of Gospel Liberty," combining the names of the two papers.

First Meeting Next Year.

The first general denominational meeting of the new combined church is to be held next year, but in the meantime the executive work of the churches will be carried on as a unit.

To a great extent the individual churches of the two denominations will retain their identities, inasmuch as there are only a few communities where the two churches both have houses of worship. Where they do overlap, they will be combined if possible.

The consolidation of the two religious papers is to be effective March 1.

Proposal to Stop Putting Poison in Alcohol Rejected

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17— (AP) — The house today rejected, 107 to 27, an amendment to the treasury-postoffice supply bill to prohibit the placing of poison in industrial alcohol by the government to make it unfit for beverage purposes.

Practice is Assailed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18— (AP) — Representative Lintchicum, democrat, Maryland, asserted today in the house that the use by the government of poison in industrial alcohol was causing the death of "several thousand persons each year."

The Maryland representative asserted that the government recently had been using wood alcohol to make industrial alcohol unfit for beverage purposes.

"This is not a question of whether you believe in prohibition," he said, "but whether you believe the government should approve the poisoning of alcohol."

HOUSE APPROVES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP.)—After one the sharpest debates in years, the house today approved a $15,000,000 appropriation for enforcement of prohibition carried in the treasury-postoffice department supply bill for the fiscal year 1931.

Arctic Flier Fails to Find Missing Pair

Crosson Flies Over Area Where Eielson Was Reported Down.

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 18—(AP)—Pilot Joe Crosson, who has been flying over northeastern Siberia from the icebound fur trading vessel Nanuk, radioed Alfred J. Lomen here today that efforts to confirm the reported finding of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland "near the Anguema river, 120 miles from North Cape, Siberia, had failed.

Lomen is director of the Eielson rescue operations. Moscow dispatches recently said soviet officials were investigating reports that the fliers had been found near the Anguema river.

Crosson yesterday flew over the district described in the Moscow dispatches and reported finding no trace of the men, who left Teller November 9 and were last heard over a reindeer camp back of Ekasura near Cape Serdze.

The flight from the Nanuk yesterday was the seventh made in the so far unsuccessful effort to trace the lost fliers by air. Crosson flew over the Anguema river delta yesterday, up the valley and returned to the ship at North Cape after flying over the deer camp near Ekasura. The district previously had been covered by plane and dog teams.

SUFFERING AND DEATH IN WAKE OF COLD WAVE

Nearly Fifty Marooned In Snow Drifts; Fourteen Lives Lost.

Relief Predicted in Western States; Livestock Loss Serious.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 18— (AP) — Cold, death and privation stalked hand in hand over the southwest today as the van of a blizzard slowly making its exit from the northern Rocky mountain states roared out over the Gulf of Mexico. Temperature records of decades fell in a dozen states and fourteen lives have been taken.

Approximately fifty persons were believed marooned in snow drifts dumped over the north by the most severe storm of years. Telephone and telegraph wires were down and highways impassable, hampering rescue operations.

Serious loss of livestock was also feared, from the sheep country of Wyoming to the cattle ranges of Texas.

Rising Temperatures.

Rising temperatures were predicted for Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico, but Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and points even farther east were in the grip of one of the most severe cold waves of their history. Texas particularly was hard hit, a hard driven snow adding to the misery of a cold to which that state is unused.

At Shamrock, Tex., 140 persons were fighting against death by cold and starvation. They went there expecting to find work on a projected railroad, only to find that construction will not be started until spring. Welfare organizations of the town of 5,000 persons were swamped by demands upon them.

The coldest place in the state was in the Panhandle, where 8 below was recorded, but clear to the Mexican border the snow and icy wind held sway.

Oklahoma Record Falls.

A reading of 25 degrees below zero at Barnsdall, Okla., was believed an all time record for the state, in the absence of official figures. Highway traffic and even railroads were demoralized by snow.

Kansas City expected 15 below this morning, the lowest since 1924, and points in western Kansas were even colder. A fifteen-inch snow of a week ago has been packed and frozen to an icy blanket over the state.

Although the Rocky mountain states had hope, they also still had the final blasts of the blizzard which struck them three days ago. In Wyoming, which bore the brunt of the storm yesterday, more than a score of persons were unaccounted for on snow choked highways. An Interstate bus was marooned between Salt Lake City and Wyoming and could not be located. In outlying districts fear was felt for the safety of many sheep herders and their flocks.

FAILURE TO CLEAN SIDEWALKS BRINGS MANY COMPLAINTS

H. E. Clapp, city sidewalk inspector, looked out at the clear skies with a great deal of satisfaction Saturday morning. After a week of heavy snow which it is his duty tto have removed from sidewalks. Friday he received not fewer than one hundred complaints while all week an average of about ninety a day have been flooding his office.

When he has been able to get in touch with the property owners, they have made little resistance to his request, that sidewalks be cleaned immediately. Clapp said.

A number of opportunities for snow shovelers have been referred to and filled by the municipal employment bureau.

G. O. P. In House Plans To Push Dry Proposals

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP)—The republican steering committee of the house today decided to expedite legislation to carry out President Hoover's recommendations for strengthening prohibition enforcement.

The steering committee is an unofficial group composed of republican leaders that passes upon the legislative proposals to be considered on the floor.

It determined to give the legislative right of way to the bills as rapidly as they are reported by various committees.

The first expected is the Williamson measure to provide for the transfer of the prohibition unit from the treasury to the justice department.

DRYS FEARFUL LOSING POWER SAYS LAGUARDIA

Eager For Vote Before Next Election, Thinks New York Solon.

PROHIBITION HAS VOTES, HE ADMITS

Cramton Declares Test Would Show Weakness Of Wet Group.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18— (AP) — Conflicting views on the proposal emanating from the senate side of the capitol for a vote on prohibition were forthcoming today from house members as the house itself arranged for a full discussion of the wet and dry issue.

The view that dry members were eager at this time to vote on the question because they were fearful of losing strength in the congressional elections of next November was voiced by Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, before taking the house floor to renew his attack on the eighteenth amendment.

On the other hand, Representative Cramton, republican, Michigan, one of the dry leaders, said he would not object to a vote "but the wets would not really want a test vote as it would show up their weakness too emphatically."

Borah Favors Vote.

A number of other dry members indicated that Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, had given expression to their own views with his statement of yesterday that: "I am ready to vote."

LaGuardia argued it was to be expected that the "prohibitionists" would seize upon the opportunity of going on record on the Blaine resolution proposing repeal of the amendment. In the present congress, he added, the drys know they have an overwhelming majority in both houses and therefore want to do their balloting before anything happens to cut their strength.

There is no arugment, he continued, but that the "prohibition group" has the votes to do what it wants.

LaGuardia Delays Debate.

LaGuardia today was the center of the prohibition controversy at the house side. At his request the house yesterday had postponed for a day consideration of the $15,000,000 appropriation carried in the treasury-postoffice supply bill for prohibition enforcement.

The delay was to enable the little New Yorker, who most of the time is on the dookout to stir up trouble for the drys, to collect material, and today he had surrounded himself with many books, documents and papers.

LaGuardia said the appropriation should be eliminated because the Eighteenth amendment never had been constitutionally ratified. He announced, before beginning his address, that when he concluded he would have proved that because of article III of the amendment, sufficient states had not ratified it. He did not at the time of this announcement disclose the line of argument leading to the conclusion.

DEFENSE MADE BY MRS. OWEN

a committee such as this to explain his marriage," Mrs. Owen said.

"If there is any penalty for my marriage I bear it proudly. I ask nothing more than ustice and expect nothing less from this committee."

Married in Nebraska.

Mrs. Owen said that by her marriage in Nebraska to Maj. Reginald A. Owen of the British army, in 1910, her citizenship was involuntarily lost under the act of 1907, but asserted she regained it in 1925 under the Cable act of 1922, through naturalization.

She denied charges concerning the effect of her European residence made by Noah C. Bainum of St. Petersburg, Fla., counsel for Lawson, and related how she had served with Mrs. Herbert Hoover during the World war in relief work in England, and later how she worked in nursing wounded British soldiers in Egypt.

Tells of Earning Living.

With her husband invalided by his service in the Dardanelles campaign, Mrs. Owen brought him to Florida, where she said it became necessary for her to take the lecture platform to provide for her husband and four children.

Because lecture tours necessitated her absence when opportunity was afforded by immigration officials at Miami for her to regain her citizenship, she said, it was 1925 before she was restored to status enjoyed before her marriage.

Her eligibility, she said, had been passed upon by prominent attorneys in Florida, who pointed out that under the Cable act, her citizenship of forty-four years had been restored, and under the constitution amounted to twenty-nine years.

INQUEST UNDER WAY IN DEATH OF BENTING

cident. Mara and Benting were repairing a tire on their car at the time of the crash.

Lippold said that as he entered the smoke on the viaduct he mentioned to his son, Charles, a previous incident where smoke had made driving dangerous. Lippold said that he did not know his truck had hit a man until so informed by his son.

Mr. Benting sustained a fractured pelvis, and injuries to his abdomen and bladder. He was bleeding internally, according to Dr. J. E. M. Thomson, but was thought to have a chance to live. A brother, R. L. Benting of Ceresco, supplied a quantity of blood for transfusions in an attempt Friday evening to save the injured man's life.

Mr. Benting had been working for several weeks at a local service station. He went to Topeka two weeks ago in quest of employment returning from there last Tuesday which was Mr. and Mrs. Benting's fifth wedding anniversary. Besides his wife, he is survived by a 2-year-old daughter, Mary Lee, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Benting of Ceresco.

Answers Filed To Four Damage Suits

Answers to four damage suits asking $71,,96 of Matthew Kobalter were filed in District court Saturday. Kobalter claims that the accident in which the four persons were injured was due in each case to their negligence and the recklessness and carelessness of the driver of their machine.

The suits and amounts asked in each were brought by Grace May, $25,215; Marie Schulze, a minor by Erna Schulze, her mother, $5,000; Ernest F. Schulze, $21,476; and Elizabeth Weatherhogg, $21,476. Mr. Schulze was driving the machine in which they were riding at the time of the accident. The accident took place at Fourteenth and K streets on September 2, 1929.

THE WEATHER.

Pressure has fallen but is still high over the northern Mountain region, and high pressure prevails southeastward to Texas, where a second center is located. Disturbances are central over western Ontario and off the south Atlantic coast. Rain or snow has fallen quite generally over the eastern half of the country and along the Pacific coast and in the middle Plateau region. It is decidely warmer over the northern and middle Mountain region and the northern and middle Great Plains, and much colder over the southern Great Plains, the middle and southern Mississippi Valley, and the lower Ohio Valley.

ENTENTE AGREES ON YOUNG PLAN

Delegates Ready to Sign Protocol Making Pact Effective.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 18—(AP)—Delegates to the second session of The Hague reparations conference on application of the Young plan expected today to leave this city Monday after formal signing of a protocol making the Young plan effective.

The last obstacle to signing of the protocol was removed in a session last night at which agreement was reached on a point of issuance of the first reparations bonds. Members of the little entente, their meeting lasting well into this morning, agreed to disagree, and to continue their conferences at Paris after adjournment of The Hague meeting.

Financial Aid For Germany.

In order to furnish Germany money needed for railroads and other internal needs it was decided to increase the first issue of reparations bonds from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000, with the amount of the increase assigned to Germany. The bonds will be issued to bear from 5 to 6 per cent interest.

The Germans agreed to abstain from making other loans until October, at which time it was supposed the first issue of the reparations bonds will have been floated. If they have not been floated by that time the Germans agree not to seek money abroad before a year from next April.

Probably 20 per cent of the $300,000,000 bonds will be offered in the United States, France taking 40 per cent and Germany and Great Britain each 20 per cent. Each subscribing country may, however, place their allotment in other countries.

LEG OF FOOTBALL PLAYER REBROKEN

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—Lorenzo Blessing, whose leg was broken in a football game last November, is getting along satisfactorily after a second and forced fracture of the limb. It had been in a cast until a few days ago. It was soon noticeable, however, that the tendons had not knitted properly and that the result would be a shortening of the limb. A new fracture and resetting was therefore necessary.

BLAZE DESTROYS A RURAL SCHOOL

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Jan. 18—The rural school four miles south of Juniata was burned to the ground at 6 p. m. Friday. The origin of the fire is unknown. It was discovered by a board member, Oscar Johnson, and before neighbors could respond to a line call, the roof fell in. Nothing was saved, and the garage also burned. Fourteen pupils will attend school in Juniata.

WOMAN DIES FROM KEROSENE BURNS

KEARNEY, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Dunning, 75, of Cozad, is dead at a hospital here, the result of burns accidentally received when she attempted to start a kitchen stove fire with kerosene.

MARRIED AT BEATRICE.

(Special to The Star)

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 18—Orville Martin of Firth and Miss Marian Lidolph of Adams were married at the Christian parsonage here Wednesday by Rev. C. O. Stuckenbruck. They will make their home on the farm of the bridegroom's father near Firth.

BEATRICE BLAZE.

(Special to The Star)

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 18—Fire starting in the basement of the J. H. Duntz block on Court street Thursday night shortly before 9 o'clock damaged the building and Herman Brandt's pool hall and soft drink establishment on the first floor to the extent of $500. The intense cold hindered the work of the firemen, but they succeeded in confining the fire to the basement.

Tiny Sisters to Cross Ocean Alone

Accompanied only by their dolls, Gerda Klautsch, 6, and her sister, Elizabeth, 4, left their home in Chicago January 15, bound for Berlin, Germany. Their father, William Klautsch, is shown bidding them goodby. The children will spent a vacation with their grandparents in Berlin.

KANSAS MOTHER SLAYS CHILD, 7

HORTON, Kas., Jan. 18—(AP)—Mrs. Karl Finger, farm woman, was in a hospital today critically wounded by a razor with which she attempted to commit suicide after slashing the throats of her two daughters. One child, May, 7, died, and the other, Rose, 8, is in a serious condition.

The woman is believed to have become insane.

Weaver Will Address South Dakota State Chamber of Commerce

Governor Weaver will leave Sunday night for Huron, S. D., to speak on Monday before the South Dakota state chamber of commerce in session there. He will discuss the question of utiliing water resources of the Missouri river and its tributaries for both navigation and irrigation, in connection with federal flood control plans for the Mississippi and its branches. Mr. Weaver will be back in Lincoln on Tuesday.

One of his Saturday callers was H. D. Strunk, newspaper publisher of McCook, who is assisting in arrangements for the big interstate conference called there for January 27 with the object of securing unified action by all thes Missouri and Mississippi valley states in support of a comprehensive program of flood control, navigation, irrigation, and water power.

Governors of all the states in this region have been invited to attend and take part in the McCook meeting. Mr. Weaver will be one of the speakers and it is hoped to have several other state executives present.

FOX COMPANY RECEIVER ASKED

Action Requested to Preserve Assets of Film Corporation.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—An application for the appointment of a receiver in equity for the Fox Film corporation was filed in Federal court today by Ira M. Gast of Rutherford, N. J., a Class A stockholder.

William Fox heads the list of codefendants. The Fox Film corporation and eleven others are named defendants.

The petitioner asks that a receiver be appointed for the preservation of the business and the assets of the corporation and to operate them for the benefit of all equally. It also asks for a restraining order enjoining the defendants from diverting assets of the corporation to any other corporation or combining them with assets of any other corporation; also that the Fox Securities corporation be restrained from selling, pledging or encumbering any of the property which has been transferred to it.

KEITH NEVILLE IS HEAD OF CHAMBER

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Jan. 18—(AP)—Keith Neville, former governor, was elected president of the chamber of commerce here by the directors last night. J. O. Patterson was named vice president, and C. E. Kelso was re-elected secretary. Mr. Kelso, before coming here, was secretary of the McCook chamber.

LINCOLN STAR Classified Advertising

The Lincoln Star is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country, and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Lincoln Star, as well as every other member of the association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standard of honesty.

Ads ordered for seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

Careful attention given to mail orders. Cash in full must accompany out-of-town advertisement.

Advertising offered for irregular insertion takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines. All ads are restricted to their proper classifications and to the regular Lincoln Star style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION.

Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Star will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

The individual advertisements under the following classifications are arranged in ALPHABETICAL order for quick references.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES.

Daily rate for consecutive insertions. Count six average words to a line. These special cash rates apply to advertising paid for within seven days after last insertion. Minimum cash rate is 36 cents. Cash rate per line per day:

1 Time	.12
3 Times	.10
7 Times	.09

These offices are open to receive advertisements from 7:00 a. m. to 10.00 p. m., daily. All advertisements received up until 12:30 p. m., will appear in all city editions the same day. All ads received between 12:30 p. m. and 10:00 p. m., will appear in all editions the following day.

INFORMS AGAINST TWO WHO ESCAPE AT REFORMATORY

Two informations charging men with escaping from the state reformatory were filed by the county attorney Saturday morning in District court. The men, William Hogge and Russell Guinn probably will be arraigned Monday morning.

The two men were both sent to the reformatory from Dundy county on forgery charges in January, 1928. They escaped together June 28, 1929. They were captured in Lusk, Wyo., with a few days of each other.

Guinn was arrested there January 3 and returned to the reformatory. Hogge was arrested at Lusk Jan 6 and returned to the reformatory on January 9.

Jack Dempsey Deep In Red as Lake City Fight Promoter

Former Champion Out of Pocket $40,000 In Series Chicago Bouts

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—Promoter Jack Dempsey and Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., light-heavyweight, today were almost convinced that the boxing game is something to stay out of.

The former world heavyweight champion's sorrow was caused by the fact that only 5,432 spectators, who paid $15,939, went to the Chicago coliseum last night to see Lomski and James J. Braddock, the Jersey City puncher, fight to a draw.

Lomski Deserved Decision.

Lomski will never believe he didn't get better than a draw with Braddock and, from their actions when the standoff decision was announced, most of the witnesses agree with the westerner.

Although knocked down twice by Braddock's right hand jolts, Lomski, in the opinion of ringside experts, took seven of the 10 rounds and deserved the decision.

The referee and judges produced all the variety of opinion possible, the former, Davy Miller, calling it a draw, one judge voting for Lomski, and the other casting his ballot for Braddock.

Westerner the Aggressor.

Lomski was flooed for a two-count in the second round and went down again in the fifth without taking a count. However, he carried the fight to his taller, heavier opponent and scored repeatedly with his left to both head and body.

Dempsey, thwarted by sub-zero weather that kept the fans at home listening to the radio account of the fight, was reported to have lost about $11,000 in the venture, bringing his total deficit since he started offering boxing entertainment in Chicago last October to approximately $40,000.

Matchmaker Resigns.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—Ray C. Alvis, matchmaker for Jack Dempsey, has resigned to resume the management of boxers. He joined the former world's heavyweight champion when he began promoting in the coliseum last October. Dempsey has not picked Alvis' successor.

College View High Game Is Cancelled

The College View-Tobias high basketbal game scheduled for Saturday night at College View, has been declared cancelled by Coach Robson. The Tobias coach used the long distance phone shortly before noon to explain that bad roads would prevent his squad from making the trip to the state capital city.

AL PLAYS GOLF WITH SWAT KING

Former Governor Has Bad Day at Swinging Clubs In Florida.

CORAL GARDENS, Fla., Jan. 18—(AP)—Beaten in his first Florida match because the home run diet of Babe Ruth betrayed the Bambino, former Governor Alfred E. Smith broke up the links team of Smith and Ruth today and set out alone in quest of golfing honors.

A challenge to former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio was promptly answered and the two, each of whom has been the democratic party's standard bearer in a presidential campaign, arranged an 18-hole battle.

Soda water has always occupied an important place on the Babe's baseball menu, but when the Bambino took to the fairways yesterday he forgot the usual complement of frankfurters. The cooling beverage, imbibed by itself under a hot sun, immediately produced at attack of cramps.

Shawkey Paired With Klem.

The result was a licking for Babe and Al at the hands of Bob Shawkey, New Yankee manager, and Bill Klem, the umpire. The count was 8 and 7.

Off to a snappy start, thanks to a couple of long drives and a 20-foot putt by the former governor, which netted a par 4, the pair made good progress until the turn was reached. At the turn, cool drinks were waiting, but no frankfurters. From then on Al and Babe hit the toboggan.

Al On Toboggan.

Babe called time out once, but he was determined to finish and in the end boasted a medal score of 95. The former governor, who had started so well, became affected by his partner's collapse and wound up with a card of 119. Shawkey had 91 and Klem 95.

The cards tell the story of the downfall of Al and Babe.

OREGON U. GETS GOPHERS' COACH

Dr. Spears and Head of School Get Together On Contract.

MISSOULA, Mont., Jan. 18—(AP)—Apparently near an agreement, Dr. Clarence A. Spears, football coach of the University of Minnesota, and President Arnold Bennett Hall of the University of Oregon today continued negotiations of a contract by which Spears would become coach at Oregon.

Following a three-hour talk last night, President Hall announced today that the two were in agreement except for minor details.

The annual salary offered the Minnesota coach is said to be $11,500. This is $3,000 a year more than paid, Major John J. McEwan, who has resigned at Oregon.

Spears, in addition to coaching football, would conduct a training course for coaches at Oregon and become a member of the university health service.

LOYOLA TAKES ON DETROIT CAGERS

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—Loyola university will seek its thirty-first consecutive basketball triumph tonight against the University of Detroit. The contest will be Loyola's last home apearance until Feb. 6, when Davis-Elkins plays here.

"Y" Basketball.

First Plymouth, 13; Trinity M. E., 5.

First Presbyterian won from First Christian; forfeit.

HUSKERS TANGLE WITH TIGER FIVE

Nebraska and Missouri Get Together Tonight At Columbia.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 18—(AP)—It will be an important game tonight in the Big Six basketball race when its Nebraska and Missouri quintets mix here. Coach Charley Black and 10 men arrived here today. Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska are tied for lead in the conference.

The Nebraska starting lineup probably will not be known until game-time. Coach Black indicated he may scramble the lineup somewhat to provide more punch in the offense and additional height in the defense.

After tonight's engagement, the Cornhuskers will return home to meet Oklahoma, Big Six champion, Monday night, at the University of Nebraska coliseum.

BAD BOY SHIRES MUST QUIT RING

Judge Landis Tells Art the Great Where and How Head In.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—Art Shires, "Peck's Bad Boy" of baseball and his own big boy of boxing, appeared before Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball's high commissioner, today to receive a warning that he either must quit boxing or forsake the national pastime.

Shires, first baseman for the Chicago White Sox last season, entered the boxing game seriously, after engaging in a couple of unofficial combats with his bosses on the ball club. He made his debut against Dangerous Dan Daly here several weeks ago, flattening the "mystery man" in less than one round.

Since then he has had three other quick knockouts and lost only one fight, by decision to George Trafton, professional football player who outweighed 'The Great Shires" by some 50 pounds.

Fled From Cameramen.

Shires spent only about three minutes before Commissioner Landis and emerged with the laconic comment that it looks like I'll have to quit the ring." He hurried out of the building without issuing any statement or posing for pictures both of which have been among his favorite pastimes.

Landis issued a statement, saying that hereafter any member of organized baseball who takes up boxing professionally would be automatically retired from baseball. He also said he had instructed Shires not to talk to newspaper men or pose for pictures, which explained the "boxer's" hasty exit.

The schedule: March 8 and 9, Giants at Houston; March 13 to 16, inclusive, Giants at San Antonio; March 22 and 23, Giants at San Antonio; March 28, at Waco, Tex.; March 29 and 30, Giants at Fort Worth and Dallas, respectively; March 31 and April 1, at Dallas; April 2 and 3, at Fort Worth; April 4 to 6, inclusive at Little Rock, Ark., April 7, Giants at Evansville, Ind., April 8, Giants at Terre Haute, Ind.; April 9, Giants at Indianapolis; April 10, Giants at Fort Wayne, Ind. April 11, Giants at Toledo, O.; April 12 and 13, Giants at Chicago.

HOLDREGE WINS FROM HAVELOCK

Visitors Three Points To Good In Cage Clash At Shoptown.

After tariling Havelock for three quarters, Holdrege came back in the final period to nose the Engineers out, 19-16, on the shoptown floor Friday night. Havelock held the lead from the opening whistle until the last few minutes of the fourth quarter, but didn't have the punch to hold the visitors.

Haberlan started the scoring for Havelock when he sank one close in shortly after the tip-off. Another basket by Haberlan and one by Helvey put Havelock in the lead, 6-3, at the end of the first quarter. Free throws and another basket by Helvey, while Doe of Holdrege was sinking two shots, gave Havelock a 10-7 lead at half time.

Havelock stretched its lead to four points in the third period on baskets by Helvey and Young, while Doe of Holdrege connected twice.

Final Period Rally.

The out-staters came back strong in the final period and tied the score when Winquist sank one from the center. The visitors counted again when Anderson made good on a close-in shot. With four minutes to play, the visitors held a four-point lead and Havelock never threatened again, the only points being made on a free throw by Helvey The game ended with the score 19-16 in favor of the visitors.

High scoring honors for the evening went to Helvey, Havelock forward, who came through with four field goals and a free throw for nine points. Haberlan, Dormer and J. Frueaf also played nice games for the Engineers. Anderson, Doe and Captain Aten were the outstanding men on the Holdrege team. Doe of Holdrege was removed from the game in the fourth quarter on personal fouls. The score:

Do You Know—

BY GENE KESSLER.

ONE way to shorten the major league season would be to play a complete series of five games in two days.

But baseball moguls will laugh at the idea.

It might be silly, but it was done. The old Baltimore Orioles defeated Louisville five games, a complete series, in a championship race, in two consecutive days, Sept. 7-8, 1896. Three games were played the first day and two the second.

That may not work, though, if the teams run into a string of extra inning contests. For instance, it took the Washington Senators 102 innings to play nine consecutive games in 1915, all extra innings, an average of 11 1-3 per game.

Nor would two teams have time for three contests in one day if the score happened to run into big figures such as when the Cubs beat the Phillies, 26 to 23, Aug. 25, 1922, in which some one scored in every inning.

AMES SWAMPED BY KANSAS FIVE

Cyclones Outclassed In Basket Battle On K. U. Maples.

LAWRENCE, Kas., Jan. 18—Kansas kept to the front in the Big Six conference basketball race last night by winning a 37-16 victory over Iowa State college. It was the ninth win of the season for the Jayhawkers and the second in conference competition.

Kansas led, 13-7, at half-time. The Cyclones pushed the score to 13-10 early in the second half, but soon were lost when Thomson, Bishop and J. Bausch started hitting the hoop. Score:

Good Golf.

BY CHESTER HORTON, Golf's Greatest Teacher.

WITH the present ball, and through the years leading up to it during which it became heavier and smaller and consequently faster and longer, there naturally developed a tendency toward lighter woods. Many pros were using 12 ounce clubs and it was reported to me that Jim Barnes had dropped down to 11 ounce bats. Now this will change with the new ball, and heavier woods will be in order. This does not mean that we will have woods greatly heavier, but the standard, I should say, will be around 13½ to possibly 15 ounces. A slow swing with a heavy head will be the best wood club policy with the new ball, and therefore it will behoove players more than ever before to cultivate the slow, rhythmic swing action. With the present ball the best theory called for a light club and more clubhead speed. With the new ball you will do better to adopt the principle of a slower clubhead and more clubhead weight. If your woods weigh around 14 ounces you are all right.

LINCOLN TAKES ON TECH CAGERS

Capital City In Combat Tonight With Old Foe From Omaha.

Making their second home appearance of the season, Coach W. H. Browne's Lincoln high cage warriors tangle with Omaha Tech, traditional foe, in a basket game slated to get under way at 8 o'clock Saturday night on the Whittier junior high school court. A curtain-raiser between the Lincoln reserves and Elmwood will begin at 6:30 p. m.

Dope points to a Lincoln victory in tonight's engagement, Tech having dropped several decisions in early season skirmishes. During the 1929 season the two teams broke even. Tech downing Lincoln at Omaha, 23-19, and Lincoln obtaining revenge by winning from the Maroons, 22-17 on the Lincoln court later in the season.

Lincoln's Veteran Quint.

With Beanie Witte playing the usual role of leader, Lincoln's quintet of five lettermen has been showing unusual class and promises to be one of the best teams Lincoln has turned out in recent years. The five veterans—Witte, Ayres, Brown, Masterson and Bauer—probably will be the Brownie starting quintet, although a few substitute players may be sprinkled here and there in an attempt to remove a stigma of staleness whcih seems to have settled down on the regulars during the last practice sessions.

Tech has dropped decisions to three Nebraska teams, Geneva, Hastings and Omaha Central, and has defeated Omaha South and Omaha North. Lincoln has defeated two St. Joseph schools, Central and Benton, Abe Lincoln of Council Bluffs, York and Jackson high, while the Red and Black colors have not been dragged in the dust of defeat as yet.

Tied With Omaha Central.

Should Lincoln be forced to accept defeat, Omaha Central would be in undisputed possession of the king's throne in the conference. If the Brownies win, the two-way tie between the Centralites and Lincoln will not be broken, although it will give Lincoln an edge in victories, three to two.

Single admission tickets for all games except that with Wyandotte high school of Kansas City will be 50 cents, the Wyandotte tussle reaching the mark of 75 cents. Season tickets will be sold at the door tonight for $2 and will include eight games. Contrary to custom, no canvass of the town will be made to sell season books, according to David Sell, business manager. The probable starting lineups for the two teams:

BRONCHOS STEP ON METHODISTS

Hastings College Wins From Wesleyan U. By One-Sided Score.

HASTINGS, Neb., Jan. 18—Coach Clarence Keel's Hastings college basketball team held the pace with Doane in leading the Nebraska College athletic conference race by defeating Nebraska Wesleyan, 32-19, last night. It was the first conference reverse for the Methodists.

With Bassett, Adrian Bivens and Larson hitting the hoop at regular intervals, the Bronchos took the lead soon after the opening whistle and increased their margin throughout the game.

Wesleyan scored first when Killenger counted from the foul line and Gibb made good a follow-in shot. Lovell's free throw and another by Bruntz, plus Bivens' basket, sent Hastings ahead. With Bassett finding the hoop for eight points, Hastings led, 15-8, at halftime. Fellers, Smith and Dickson looked the best for Wesleyan. Score:

Check Fulmer In Concordia Battle

Check Fulmer, middleweight glove-whirler of Lincoln, pulled away today for Concordia, Kas., where he is scheduled to tangle with Cannonball Joe Kopher of Clay Center, Kas., in a 10-round main event on the book for Monday night in Concordia. The American Legion post is sponsoring the program, which also lists a 10-round semi-windup between Danny Swartzkoff, Lincoln middle, and Eddie Boughan of Kansas.

Fighter Not Used To Hooting of Owl

BY AL DEMAREE.

MANY fights have been won and lost under peculiar circumstances, but it remained for Ed. Smith, the old referee, to tell me how an owl once caused the defeat of a certain old-time fighter.

It was in the days when fighters and spectators had to play tag with the sheriff and stage their fight wherever they were reasonably safe.

This particular fight was pulled off in the woods at night with kerosene lamps to light the ring.

About the third round a large owl in a nearby tree became irritated at the light and noise and showed his displeasure by cutting a long ghost-like, spooky "Whoooo!"

One of the fighters heard it and turned in terror to find out where the ghostlike voice came from.

His opponent was quick to take advantage and knocked him cold as a polar bear's nose.

Spectators and seconds shouting instructions have also caused fighters to turn and lower their guard, leaving themselves open for a finishing blow.

MACCABEE GIRLS BASKET WINNERS

The Maccabees girls' basketball team No. 1 defeated the Nebraska Buick team, 46 to 16, on the Y. W. C. A. floor Friday night. Moreen Russell, center, rang up 22 points for the Maccabees, while Mildred Kahn did most of the scoring for the Buicks. Eloise Spencer refereed.

LUTHER QUINT AT SEWARD TONIGHT

WAHOO, Neb., Jan. 18—Coach Samuelson and 10 members of the Luther college basketball squad traveled to Seward today to meet Concordia college in a Junior conference game tonight.

Players making the trip were Samuelson, Paroulek, Anderson, M. Gustafson, R. Gustafson, Lawson, High, Olson, Young and Sederburg.

PURSUING GOLD ON GOLF LINKS

Nation's Greatest Swing Into Action Monday At Agua Caliente.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 18—(AP)—Those who roam the nation's golf links seeking glory and gold gathered here today in anticipation of the world's richest golfing money event, the Agua Caliente $25,000 open, which opens Monday across the Mexican border in Lower California.

The four-day 72-hole medal tournament, with its picked field of nearly a hundred experts of fairways fame, holds as its first place stake $10,000 of Mexican gold at United States values.

La Jolla Tourney Today.

The greatest share of this array of links stylists are encamped on this side of the international line, anxiously waiting the opportunity to chase the elusive par over the new and untried Agua Caliente course. Today most of them will appear in an 18-hole $1,000 event at the picturesque little town of La Jolla, near here.

The one-day tourney should serve as a tid-bit for those whose eyes are set on the glittering prizes of the coming classic. This will be the inauguaral of the Agua Caliente tournament.

Shute Tops Field.

At the head of this chosen field of professionals and amateurs stands Denny Shute, a new member of the crown wearers, by virtue of his victory in the recent Los Angeles $10,000 open.

Shute, in seeking new fields to conquer, is faced with the sternest opposition, for trudging at his heels come Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., professional, who is the nation's leading gleaner of money championships.

Diegel On Home Course.

Then there is Leo Diegel, home professional at Agua Caliente and king of the professionals. Only slightly less important are Gene Sarazen, fresh from his Miami, Fla., victory; Bobby Cruickshank, "Wee Scot" from New York, who tied with the Missouri Smith for second in the Los Angeles open; the Espinosa brothers, Abe and Al, who hail from Chicago; Macdonald Smith, Long Island; the Detroit delegation composed of Al Watrous, Walter Hagen and George Von Elm, one of the nation's leading amateurs; not to mention Johnny Golden, Joe Kirkwood, the Dutra brothers, Olin and Mortie. Johnny Farrell and a large delegation of others.

Hebrew Fighter From Britain Swings Mean Brace Boxing Gloves

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Jack (Kid) Berg, the human perpetual motion machine from England, today occupied a strategic position from which to fire a challenge at the king of all the lightweights, Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill.

Berg gained the finest triumph of his American invasion in Madison Square Garden last night when he gave Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, a terrific beating in a 10-round bout, fought before 18,800 spectators.

Singer Next Opponent.

The English Jew now needs only to turn back Al Singer, Bronx idol, later in the indoor season to gain a little "shot" with Mandell in one of the big outdoor shows of the year. That at least, is Madison Square Garden's plan of action.

Except for the first and third rounds, Berg gave Canzoneri a thorough trouncing. Carrying the fight to his stocky little rival, the Briton slung leather from every angle, split Tony's lips and cheeks and opened up cuts over both of the little Italian's eyes.

Experts Given Upset.

The Briton's victory came as a distinct shock for Canzoneri, generally considered one of the very few great fighters of the era, who was a two to one favorite. Berg's victory demonstrated at the same time that the Englishman can make the lightweight limit without sapping any of his remarkable endurance or speed. The Englishman scaled 134½ to Canzoneri's 133 for the bout.

Although most ringside critics believed Berg had won easily, the referee, Mike Hylas, voted for Canzoneri. Both judges, however, agreed on Berg.

Berg Only Once Defeated.

Berg has fought 17 battles here since he arrived for his second American invasion in February, 1929. Of these battles, he has won 15, lost one and drawn one. He has been beaten only by Billy Petrolle, the "Fargo Express." Stanislaus Loayza, rugged Chilean lightweight, held the Briton to a draw.

BIG TEN CAGESTERS POISED FOR BATTLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP)—Two of the three unmarred Big Nine basketball slates—those owned by Illinois and Indiana—will be the targets of Wisconsin and Northwestern sharpshooters tonight.

The Illini, ranked as the early season surprise team because of triumphs over Ohio State and Michigan, will invade Wisconsin, while Indiana, victor over Chicago in its only conference start, will entertain Northwestern's first division five.

Defeat for either Wisconsin or Northwestern virtually would mean elimination from the title scramble. Each has suffered one defeat, the Badgers having fallen before northwestern, and the Wildcats, in turn, having bowed to Purdue's undefeated five. Should both Illinois and Indiana fall tonight, Purdue would ease into sole possession of first place.

Briton Bidding For Speed Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—Hubert Scott-Paine, the British speed boat designer, will arrive in this country Wednesday aboard the Homeric. With his visit here, motorboat leaders in America heard rumors that Scott Paine would design and build two challengers for the Harmsworth speed-boat trophy, now held by Gar Wood of Detroit.

One of the boats is to be delivered to Sir Henry Segrave, who already has announced his intention of challenging for the trophy this year. The other will be placed in the race by Scott-Paine himself.

Marion Carstairs, famous British woman pilot, also will have one or more entries in the race.

"Miracles of Sport"

By Robert Edgren

The greatest sports authority and the dean of sports Cartoonists.

A CHAMPION himself (he has been the holder of 23 world's records in amateur sports) Edgren knows the thrill of competition—he knows what makes for greatness in the athletic world. His knowledge, gained over a period of many years, is expressed in his work and has won for him the title of Champion Sports Cartoonist.

The unusual—the almost incredible — truly named "MIRACLES OF SPORTS" — will appear daily on The Star's sports pages starting Jan. 20.
